SEA ANEMONES.

Effects of Captivity Upon These Creatures and Upon Coral Polyps.

When first placed in an aquarium, the sea anemone will at the slightest touch contract its flowerlike tentacles instantly, but in the course of a few months it changes in this respect greatly and becomes decidedly tame.

When fed, the food is conveyed to the anemones because they can't go after

In nature the sea anemones would attach themselves to rocks or timbers a tideway or wherever they could find food from the passing waters. In captivity in an aquarium the food is added down to them in the water on the end of a stick, to be shaken off when reach of their tentacles. At the slightest touch, but after a time they become so tame that they are not frightened by it at all.

The sea anemone has some power of motion. It changes its location by lifting itself along on its base, and they attach itself almost anywhere. While they might cling to rocks over which there was an unbroken sweep of water, they might fasten to a rocky shelf where they would be protected from an overhanging cliff. The tame anemones in an aquarium would be those attached to rocks situated in shallow water.

An anemone that had remained in a sheltered place under some projecting and protecting rock would still remain sensitive. The one outdoors, so to speak, would know the stick and not be alarmed by it; the one that lived in that sheltered place under the rock would still draw in its tentacles at the slightest touch.

The small and delicate little coral polyps found off the Jersey coast do just the same thing. From the top of the body of one of these polyps spring the waving tentacles with which they gather in its food. Like those of the sea anemone, they are flowerlike in appearance, so that these coral polyps are like so many little marvelous flowers; or, where there are many of them clustered together, they might be likened to a forest of the tiniest imaginable willows. But one of these little trees, with a trunk half an inch in height and with branches spreading out from it, will sink suddenly at a touch into the shallow structure it has built on the rock and quite disappear from view.

PATTON PAINT CO.,

Gentlemen:

I have always been insulted
By the Man who's in the Sun;
He has always been most forward
Since our cycle was begun;
And the latest of his doings
That has made me grow quite faint,
Is the shine of his Corona
Since he used your Sun-Proof Paint.

Now, the Sun attracts attention
(From the planets) more than I;
So I asked what caused his brightness
And he made this curt reply:
"I use 'Patton's Paints' to paint with
For they do not quickly fade.
You should know they wear the longest
Of many hundreds that are made."

I am writing you this letter
To obtain the agency;
So, whenever the Sun needs painting
He will have to come to me.
There is one more thing I'm wanting
To help hold him in restraint—
Forty gallons (silver color)
Of your Patton's Sun-Proof Paint.

Yours truly,

The Man in the Moon.

First Horse In Central Africa.

In "A White Woman In Central Africa" Miss Caddick gives an interesting account of the first horse which had survived the attacks of the tsetse fly on the journey from Durban to Mlanje. This lucky or luckless animal had an adventure on the way which came near ending its history, if not its life.

The horse was landed safely at Chiromo, but one evening while the party was in camp something frightened it, and it broke away, with the saddle on its back.

The boys followed it in vain and at last gave it up as lost and went on to Mlanje. From there natives were sent out in all directions to search for the lost horse.

It was quite two weeks before the animal was found, tired out, very hungry and still very much frightened. Its saddle was still on, but turned underneath its body.

Fascinations of a Glacier.

The fascinations of a glacier are as witching as they are dangerous. Apostolic vision of a crystal city glorified by light "that never was on land or sea" was not more beautiful than these vast ice rivers, whose onward course is chronicled, not by years and centuries, but by geological ages. With white domed, snow cornices wreathed fantastic as arabesque and with the glassy walls of emerald grotto reflecting a million sparkling jewels, one might be in some cavernous dream world or among the tottering grandeur of an ancient city. The ice pillars and silvered pinnacles, which scientists call seracs, stand like the sculptured marble of temples crumbling to ruin. Glittering pendants hang from the rim of bluish chasm. Tints too brilliant for artists' brush gleam from the turquoise of crystal walls. Rivers that flow through valleys of ice and lakes, hemmed in by hills of ice, shine with an azure depth that is very infinity's self.

Our Lake Life Savers.

When the United States life saving service was first established along the lakes, the men received no salaries, but were paid $10 each whenever they rescued any human being from a wreck. For the necessary drills and for the work, often prolonged and intensely painful, at stranded ships where no lives were preserved by their efforts they received not a cent. National parsimony, speaking through congress, asked the day laborers and fishermen along the lake beaches to fill up the crews on those terms. It was an appeal from the meanest instincts of the race addressed to the noblest, and it was not made in vain. Even to attend a drill cost those volunteers a day's wages, and that very often meant the loss of needed clothing and even of food for themselves and families, but they stood by the lifeboats.

"It will never be believed," as one annual report says, "but the truth is that these men of the lakes, out of their love of the life saver's work, remained in the service and took their chances of getting enough day labor to support themselves and families, when they might have gone afloat in lake merchantmen at wages ranging above $21 a week. The record they made in this respect is without parallel in the history of the surf."—Harper's Weekly.

A Famous Quotation.

A story about Keats is quoted by the late Sir Benjamin Ward Richardson in his "Lives" of disciples of Æsculapius. Dr. Stephens, a friend of the doctor, once told him that one evening at twilight when he and Keats were sitting together in their student days, Stephens at his medical books, Keats engrossed in his dreaming, Keats called out to his friend that he had composed a new line—"A thing of beauty is a constant joy."

"What think you of that, Stephens?" "It has the true ring, but is wanting in some way," replies the latter as he dips once more into his medical studies.

An interval of silence, and again the poet: "'A thing of beauty is a joy forever.' What think you of that, Stephens?"

"That it will live forever."
A happy prophecy indeed!

Tougher Than Leather.

In New York the other day a typical street fakir was selling boxes of shoe polish. At the top of his voice he was telling the virtues of the compound. "All you have to do, gents," he said, "is to put it on, and your boots will shine like patent leather. You don't have to rub it, and it will preserve the leather and make it waterproof. It costs but a nickel, a half a dime, one-twentieth of a dollar, and," he concluded, holding out a box toward a rawboned countryman, "here is one man that wants a box, I know."

"Waal, I dunno whether I dew er not," said the countryman. "I rather guess the danged stuff's got acids in it, and it'll rot the leather."

"Sir," answered the fakir, with great solemnity, "you are unduly incredulous. I will demonstrate to you that this polish is so harmless that it might be put into the hands of a teething child. Look, I will eat it."

As he spoke he took a pinch of the grimy looking compound from a box, placed it in his mouth, and, with a look of triumph in his eyes, began to chew it. "Now, sir," he said to the countryman, "are you convinced?"

"Waal, I dunno," said the incredulous one. "Because you eat the stuff it ain't no proof that it won't rot leather. Guess I won't buy none."

Peerage on the Decimal System.

As money is to be the master, would it not be wise to have our peerage established on the decimal system? It would work out in this way. The rank of a man should depend entirely upon his income as returned by him for taxing purposes and would vary with it. Thus one with an income of £150,000 and over would be a duke, £100,000 would be a marquis, £50,000 would be an earl, £25,000 would be a viscount, £10,000 would be a baron, £5,000 would be a baronet, £1,000 would be a knight and £500 would be an esquire. The rest would be the copper classes.

The scheme would be especially serviceable in increasing the amount of the income tax, for of course every self respecting Englishman would return his income at the highest figure which his resource could support. What man so sordid that, having but £500 a year, he would not willingly pay tax on £1,000 so as to enjoy the right of being dubbed a knight? The instinct of self advancement would make each pay on the highest scale, so that the revenue would benefit enormously, and the authorities could rely upon the vast majority of taxpayers overstating rather than understating their incomes.—London Truth.

Albert E. McReel, superintendent of the Exeter, Hampton & Amesbury Street Railway, has resigned his position. Assistant superintendent Everett P. Weeks will assume the management.

A Man's Disadvantages.

He cannot put a puff round his elbow when his sleeves wear through.

His friends would smile if he disguised a pair of frayed trousers with graceful little shingle flouncies.

He would likewise be geyed if he sought to cover the ravage of a spark from his cigar with an applique of even the finest lace.

The poor thing must shave every other day at the outside or pose as an anarchist.

He has to content himself with somber colorings or be accused of disturbing the peace.

He may not wear flowers or ribbons in his hair, no matter how bald he becomes.

His heirs would have a guardian appointed should he take to lace trimmed lingerie.

The feathers in his cap are as nothing from the decorative standpoint.

He may not take unto himself a lace overskirt when his pearl trousers become dingy.

He can't edge his coat sleeve with a fall of lace to hide a scarred or maimed hand.

A pink veil is out of the question, no matter how muddy his complexion may become.

As for covering up the stain made by a careless waiter, with a jabot—no! Moral.—We're glad we're a helpless woman.—Philadelphia Record.

Beyond His Ability.

A faultlessly attired woman walked along Charles street the other morning with a small black dog, which appeared to take a delight in darting from one side of the sidewalk to the other. Several pedestrians narrowly averted a collision with the dog by most amusing (to others) and ungraceful athletic exhibitions. Finally the heavy foot of a young man, hurrying in the opposite direction, came in violent contact with the dog's ribs, and the little animal was sent howling into the gutter. The woman shrieked and gathered her pet in her arms, pressing her fair cheek against it and murmuring words of pity. The young man blushed, made an awkward bow and stammered:

"I beg your pardon, miss. Please excuse my awkwardness. If I have killed your dog, I'll replace it."

In tones that fairly liquefied the surrounding air the woman retorted, "Indeed, you flatter yourself."—Baltimore Sun.

John Flynn, of Portsmouth, a switchman employed by the B. & M. R. R., crushed his foot so badly Wednesday that it had to be amputated.

THE PRICE OF MILK

Producers Score a Victory Over the Contractors as to It.

The Price Per Can Raised 2 2-3 Cents—In Addition to This They Have Been Granted Almost Every Concession They Asked For—Tariff for Individual Shippers of From One to 1000 Cans Daily to Boston Filed With the Legislature by the N. Y., N. H. & Hartford Railroad Had a Bearing on the Result—Farmers Are Highly Pleased.

Boston, March 26.—The directors of the New England Milk Producers' union are feeling highly elated over the outcome of their long conference with the Boston milk contractors' committee over the price to be paid for milk during the six months beginning April 1, for by the agreement finally reached the producers will receive an advance over present prices of about 2 2-3 cents a can, and they have been conceded about everything they asked for. The prices agreed upon are as follows: For April, July, August and September, 26 cents a can, and for May and June 35 cents, with an allowance of 2 cents a can for carrying the surplus, the surplus to be the same in all zones.

The prices quoted to farmers are to be net, based on the above prices, and not subject to surplus. It was decided that there shall be only one form of contract; that the grading shall be at the discretion of each contractor; that either method of even production that has been offered at these March meetings may be adopted by the contractors at their discretion.

Until yesterday the contractors had refused to pay more than 33 cents net a can, while the producers claimed that their demand of 34 cents net was justified by the increased cost of grain. Had the controversy been confined to matters pertaining to the cost of production there is a probability that a satisfactory agreement would not have been reached so quickly, but the fact that the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad company had filed with the legislature a tariff for individual shippers of from one to 1000 cans of milk to the Boston market, thus falling into line with the Boston and Maine, served, it is believed, as a warning to the contractors that unless concessions were made, the producers might before long take the business into their own hands.

It was pointed out also that Boston and Albany's tariff rate from Barre Plains to Boston is fixed at 6 cents a can, while the contractors have been charging 9.

President Ward of the Producers' union, who has been the leading figure in the struggle to secure increased prices, but who has been unable to attend recent meetings on account of illness, was present at the conference yesterday.

OUTLOOK IS FOR STRIKE.

Seems as Though It Can Hardly Be Avoided in Lowell.

Lowell, Mass., March 26.—Five unions affiliated with the Textile council held special meetings last night to act upon the strike question and only two definitely decided their attitude. The others will send delegates to the meeting of the council tonight with instructions to use their own discretion.

The unions that voted to strike are the weavers' and beamers. Those which decided to declare themselves at the meeting of the central body are the carders, nappers and knitters. Special delegates were named by the three latter bodies and it is understood that their action will be influenced by the will of the majority.

The outlook now is that a strike is inevitable, although there is some sentiment favoring the postponement of an ultimatum until a proposition is first made to the mill agents for a conference. The state board of arbitration has not yet been appealed to by either party, but it is believed that it may be called upon to intercede if the mill officials acquiesce.

BALFOUR AND BULLER.

Engage in Word Duel Over Certain Doings During South African War.

London, March 26.—Acrimonious correspondence between A. J. Balfour and General Buller has been made public. Mr. Balfour contended that General Buller was in chief command at the battle of Spion Kop, while General Buller denied it. To his contention Mr. Balfour added: "There is no reason why all the Spion Kop dispatches should not be published." To this General Buller rejoined that he hoped the dispatches would be published without manipulation.

Yesterday Mr. Balfour replied to General Buller. He protested against the latter's insinuation and declared that the only manipulation which had been exercised with regard to General Buller's dispatches was the excision of a single sentence, criticising Sir Charles Warren. The omissions from Lord Roberts' dispatches relating to operations in Natal were made, said Mr. Balfour, "solely for the purpose of, if possible, sparing your feelings and maintaining your military reputation."

Four Thousand Looked On.

Lajunta, Col., March 26.—W. H. Wallace, a negro sleeping car porter, was hanged to an electric light pole here last night by a mob of 4000 persons who had been hunting for him all day. After the hanging the body of the negro was riddled with bullets. Wallace had been kept out of town by Sheriff Farr in an attempt to save him from the mob. The prisoner made no resistance to the lynching and died protesting his innocence of criminal assault.

CUBA LIBRE MAY 20

Date Announced for Island's Formal Independence.

There Will Be No Half Way Evacuation, as the Whole United States Force Will Be Withdrawn From the Country at That Time, With the Exception of Coast Defenses—Question of Reciprocity Unsettled—Palma, the Cuban President, Is Optimistic as to the Island's Future—Tribute to the Generosity of the United States.

Washington, March 26.—Secretary Root yesterday afternoon made public his order to General Wood, directing him to turn over the control and government of Cuba to its people on May 20 next. The order requires the Cuban government to assume all treaty obligations.

Besides the final selection of May 20 as Cuban independence day, two other important conclusions were reached. The first was that General Wood immediately upon his return to Cuba should issue a call convening the first Cuban congress in session on May 10, in order that the body might employ the 10 days following that date in supplying any legislation necessary to the assumption of full powers in the island. The other conclusion was that there should be no half-way evacuation of the island; the present disposition is to move the entire United States contingent, civil and military, away from the island, not even leaving a corporal's guard of United States soldiers in any of the camps. This, however, does not apply to the coast defenses at several points in the island. These will be garrisoned by United States troops.

There is no likelihood whatever of a special message from the president on the Cuban situation. The advice of the cabinet is strongly against such a course now, on the ground that the president's position and wishes are already known and that there is still a hope of working out as good results without a message as could be hoped for with one.

The latest turn given to the negotiations between the administration and the "insurgents" in the house is the consideration of serious reduction in the differential duties on refined sugars or their total abolition; the purpose of this plan is to put the sugar trust on the same footing as the beet-sugar contingent and thus do away with the argument raised in the "insurgent" camp that the proposed reciprocity scheme meant added profit for the trust and damage to the growers.

Chair Factory Burned.

Gardner, Mass., March 26.—The main building of the extensive chair manufactory of John A. Dunn, located in the business section of the town, was burned early this morning, causing a loss of nearly $75,000. The building was 3½ stories and gave employment to about 500 hands who will be temporarily thrown out of work. The fire started shortly after midnight, resulting from the burning out of a chimney which set fire to the dryhouse.

Teacher Sues School Principal.

South Norwalk, Conn., March 26.—Action, said to be the outcome of an anonymous letter scandal which has stirred the village of Rowayton for months, was taken yesterday, when John W. McClellan, principal of the South Five-Mile River school, was sued by a teacher of the school, Elizabeth A. Ervin. Miss Ervin claims damages of $5000. McClellan is charged with slander and libelous statements regarding Miss Ervin.

Correspondents See War Clouds.

Berlin, March 26.—Copious dispatches received from New York and Washington and published here describe France and Russia as meditating war upon Great Britain and Japan over China, and as seeking assurances from Germany of that country's neutrality. The foreign office repudiates this story and avers that Russia and France have not made any such inquiries here.

Wild Throw Cost a Life.

Clinton, Ia., March 26.—While practicing athletics here yesterday Tim Clark made a wild throw in putting the shot and the 12-pound ball struck Hugh Callahan, 8 years old, in the head, death resulting a few minutes later. The boy's skull was fractured.

Dragged to Death.

Denver, March 26.—Zeno Edman, a jockey, 19 years old, was killed at Buckland Park yesterday, being thrown by a horse which he was exercising and dragged more than half a mile.

Each Will Hoe Its Own Row.

Topeka, Kas., March 26.—The Populist state central committee last night issued a call for a state convention, to be held June 24. The plan for fusion of the Democratic and Populist parties has been declared off, and both parties will nominate a ticket.

Specimen of German "Wit."

Berlin, March 26.—Simplicissimus, an illustrated journal, appeared yesterday with a drawing representing Alice Roosevelt at sea in an open boat, an immense fat hog in one end of the boat and Miss Roosevelt standing in the other holding a pig wrapped in the Stars and Stripes. This drawing is inscribed: "We received your prince, you must admit our hogs."

China's Latest Rebellion.

Pekin, March 26.—As a result of the rebellion in the southern part of Honan province, and the murder there of 14 converts, an edict has been issued ordering the magistrate of Pi-Yan to be degraded and the magistrate of Yung-Po to be punished. The rebels are ordered to be beheaded. One priest is reported to be missing.

Polite Burglars Found Guilty.

Jersey City, March 26.—Thomas F. Croughan, Louis Croughan and William Cady, known as "the polite burglars of Jersey City," were convicted before Judge Blair yesterday. Sentence was deferred. Their methods were to enter houses and, while holding their revolvers to the heads of their victims, apologize for the intrusion.

An Election Law Killed.

Columbus, O., March 26.—The Garfield law, which aimed to prevent corrupt practices at elections, was wiped off the statutes yesterday by the senate passing the bill for its repeal. The chief argument against it was that it was ineffective and that it placed a premium on perjury.

Cleveland's Easter Vacation.

Princeton, N. J., March 26.—Ex-President Cleveland, accompanied by Professor John H. Finley and Dr. J. O. Bryant of New York, leave today on an Easter pleasure trip to Florida. They will be gone a week or ten days.

Reported Arrest of Tsilka.

London, March 26.—It is reported from Salonika, says the correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, that the Turkish authorities have arrested Pastor Tsilka, husband of Mme. Tsilka, on suspicion of complicity in the abduction of Miss Stone.

"ELIXIR OF LIFE."

The boys are now inclined to meet
On all the corners of the street.

They marbles play, in dust and mud,
Or spin their tops for fun, or blood.

Some boys are young, and some are old,
Some trade in drugs, and some in gold,
And people on the corners stop
To watch the children spin the top.

SCHOOL MEETING.

The school meeting held at the town hall last Saturday afternoon was more largely attended than usual, and the meeting was quite exciting. Charles A. Morse was re-elected moderator for the ensuing year, but resigned, as did also Charles V. Doe, and Charles E. Tasker was finally chosen to fill the office. True E. Smith was elected clerk, Frank H. Pinkham, treasurer, and F. E. Tuttle and A. T. Stackpole, auditors for the ensuing year. Alanson C. Haines was elected member of the school board for three years. By request Channing Folsom, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, explained article six, which was in relation to the fining of truant children. The article was indefinitely postponed, however. There was considerable discussion on the matter of appropriating school money, but it was finally voted to raise $2000 for school purposes.

DURHAM.

Quietness again prevails, and for ten days there will be but little doing. Most of the students went home for rest and recreation during the vacation.

The ground was broken for the new agricultural building on Wednesday morning, and as soon as the necessary blasting out of the ever present ledge is completed the work of construction will commence.

The Packer's Falls school commenced last Monday and the Point school will commence next Monday.

The School Board met Monday, organized and transacted the usual routine of business.

William Thornhill, who has for some time been in charge of the Hamilton Smith property, has resigned and moved away. Alfred Haggard will soon return to take charge of the property for the summer, but it is rumored that the Smiths will spend the summer in Europe, which means that "Red Towers" will be practically closed this summer.

Newmarket business men should form a board of trade. Few towns of this size are without one. The success of the reception to Mr. Nichols Monday evening shows what the business men of the town could do were they organized. Who will start it?

The hearing before the Railroad Commissioners, in regard to the proposed Exeter and Newmarket street railway will take place at the town hall this Friday at 10 o'clock A. M. All citizens interested are requested to be present.

The newly elected and appointed officers of Rising Star Lodge, No. 47, A. F. and A. M., will be publicly installed on Wednesday evening, April 2, 1902, at 8 o'clock. Past Master, Charles E. Tasker will act as installing officer and Past Master, Woodbridge W. Durell as Grand Marshal.

We have investigated the matter and are unable to find any truth in the rumor that a paper is in circulation petitioning the running of the mills Saturday afternoons. The business men in town all seem to like the idea of shutting down a half day Saturdays, and the report circulated around town that they are not in favor of it is false.

Money in Maple Sugar.

The income from the maple product of the United States in a single season has reached $1,250,000. It is impossible for the farmer to make money more rapidly in four to six weeks' time in any other branch of his occupation. Even with 1000 or 1500 maple trees becomes a business man with a high-class product, and feeling proud as when he sold his autumn crop of wheat. In the case of the production of wheat he tills and fertilizes the soil and sows the seed, then reaps his harvest. In his maple career he reaps only. His ownership of sugar bush makes him, in a small way, a capitalist. If he simply looks after that which accrues from his capital of trees he cannot stop making money.—Country Life in America.

Fogg, of Packer's Falls, who has been confined to the house all winter and Mrs. Burnham Buzzell, who has been ill several weeks, and Mrs. Clara Thompson, who has so long been on the sick list, were all at church.

Much to our surprise, we find that Dudley Leavitt's almanac, that infallible guide, has made a mistake by placing the movable festivals one week ahead of time. This is the first one we ever heard of in the hundred and five years of its existence, in which, after the bible and school books, it has occupied the place of honor at the hearth corner of our fathers and their fathers. It must be owing to his extreme age!

Last Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. John S. Jenkins entertained the "Strafford Whist Club" at their pleasant, spacious farm house. There were twenty-one present. At 11 o'clock a delectable collation was served, after which the men kindly washed the dishes, and as they seemed to believe that "in union there is strength" they all "took a hand," it was a secret session, "behind closed doors." We observed that number did not expedite matters at all, but was powerful in making a noise. The Messrs. A. W. and John Griffiths and Mrs. Frank Oldham with their banjos, assisted by Herbert E. Jenkins with his harmonica gave us some really fine music. There was also vocal music by several present; Herbert E. Jenkins sang a solo in a pleasing manner. Basking in the warmth of pleasant, social intercourse we lingered longer than we ought, and as we reluctantly started out in the stillness and hush of the early Sabbath morning with the full moon veiled in fleecy clouds, the vastness of the great, wide out-of-doors brought to mind those beautiful words of Mrs. Browning, "and I smiled to think God's greatness, flowed around our incompleteness; round our restlessness, His rest." Lady and gentleman who won first prizes, Mrs. Frank Oldham and Herbert E. Jenkins; lady and gentleman who were presented consolation prizes, Mrs. Newell Foss and William Priest.

ANON.

It goes without saying that this is a phenomenal March.

Thomas Connor of Warner visited over Sunday with his relatives.

Here I've been and celebrated Palm Sunday for Easter, because the almanac said Easter came the 23d. I'm afraid Dudley Leavitt is getting too far along in years to edit an almanac. A person one hundred and five years old is apt to make mistakes. I expect to at that age.

It was my pleasure once on a time to hear that celebrated humorist, "Artemas Ward," lecture in Boston. "Ghosts" was advertised to be the subject. We were packed in Tremont Temple like sardines in a box, and from the time that solemn cadaverous individual appeared, till he left the stage, everybody was in convulsions of laughter. Next to me sat an old gent whose mirthful chucklings were another incentive to my giggling (for I was a girl then). "Isn't he funny," said he to me. "I can't hear a word he says, been stone deaf for a year, but everybody seems to be so hilarious, I know he's jolly." Well, Artemas talked about everything except "ghosts," and just as he was retiring he said, "O about them ghosts, I've been so busy, I couldn't get to them this time."

FAREWELL RECEPTION.

CITIZENS OF NEWMARKET TENDER A. J.
NICHOLS A PARTING RECEPTION AND BANQUET.

AMBROSE J. NICHOLS.

One of the most successful events in Newmarket's social circle for many years was the farewell reception and banquet tendered Ambrose J. Nichols, agent of the Newmarket Manufacturing Co. for the past 22 years, which was held in Pythian and G. A. R. hall last Monday evening.

It occurred to some of the business men in town that before Mr. Nichols' departure from Newmarket the citizens should in some way show him how much they appreciated him and how much they regretted his departure from Newmarket. Consequently the following resolution was drawn up, which was signed by over 150 business men and prominent citizens of the town.

To MR. AMBROSE J. NICHOLS:—

We, the undersigned, citizens of Newmarket, improve this opportunity to convey to you an expression of the regard and esteem in which you are held by your fellow-townsmen. Your many acts of kindness have made for you a host of loyal friends, who earnestly desire that in your new home and surroundings you will meet with other friends, in whose minds and hearts will soon be found the same high appreciation for those virtues which strengthen the fraternal bond of a common humanity. In bidding you farewell, we assure you of our most earnest wish for your future prosperity and happiness. That you may enjoy in the fullest measure the remaining years of life, is the sincere wish of your many friends.

It was arranged that the above resolution should be presented to him at a reception and banquet given in his honor, and the date of the affair was set for last Monday evening.

Nearly 85 of the leading citizens of Newmarket gathered at Pythian Hall at about 8 o'clock Monday evening and an informal reception was held for about an hour. The company included nearly every business man and many of the overseers of the mills, besides friends and many prominent citizens. It would be almost impossible on any other occasion to gather together the same company as was present at this affair. At the conclusion of the reception the company adjourned to the hall below where a most elaborate banquet had been prepared, Biddle of Dover catering. After grace had been asked by the Rev. C. S. Young, all were seated at the banquet table where the following menu was served:

Escalloped Oysters.	Cold Roast Turkey.
Shrimp Salad.	Potato Chips.
Chicken Croquettes.	Chicken Salad.
Wine Jelly.	French Peas.
	Assorted Cake.
Fruit.	Vanilla Ice Cream.
	Coffee.

At the conclusion of the banquet cigars were lighted and Woodbridge W. Durell, in a few well-chosen words, introduced the toast-master of the evening, Charles E. Tasker. Mr. Tasker then presented to Mr. Nichols the written memorial, and made a few remarks as to the object of the gathering. Mr. Nichols replied briefly, but his manner showed that he was deeply moved by the good-will shown him, and that he appreciated it was very evident. The toast-master then called on Rev. T. E. Reilly, who spoke very eloquently of Mr. Nichols as he has known him for the past 15 years. Mr. Reilly was followed by Dr. S. H. Greene, T. M. Joy, Rev. J. C. Osgood, M. P. Barber, I. W. Doeg, Rev. C. S. Young, Dr. C. A. Morse, J. D. Aiken, I. T. George, Geo. O. Hodgdon, W. H. Small, Geo. E. Joy, Joseph Pinkham, W. W. Durell, J. M. Caswell, M. H. London and A. H. Place, all of whom made excellent remarks. Rev. C. S. Young, who had just returned from the Cottage Hospital at Portsmouth, gave Mr. Nichols and the company present the best wishes of Mr. Frank H. Pinkham, who would have been glad to have been present were he able. At the conclusion of the speechmaking all joined in singing "America" and "Auld Lang Syne," and after shaking hands with Mr. Nichols the gathering broke up, all wishing him much happiness and prosperity in his new home.

Much credit is due the ones who had the affair in charge for the successful manner in which each detail was carried out, and especial praise is due W. W. Durell, the originator of the idea.

Mr. Nichols was born in Coventry, R. I., March 13, 1834, and resided there the early part of his life. At the age of six years he entered the mills as a card tender and followed the cotton industry all his life up to the time of his resignation as agent of the Newmarket Manufacturing Co. When he accepted the position in Newmarket there were 906 looms in the mills—there are now 2344. During his management of the corporation five new mills have been built and the engines and water-wheels have been replaced by later patterns. In the 22 years that Mr. Nichols has been a resident of Newmarket the welfare of the town has always been in his mind, and he was always ready to assist in anything that would benefit the community.

PNEUMONIA FOLLOWS A COLD. But never follows the use of Foley's Honey and Tar. It stops the cough, heals and strengthens the lungs and affords perfect security from an attack of pneumonia. Refuse substitutes. G. L. Dearborn.

NOTES BY THE WAYSIDE.

Spring, gentle spring is on the wing,

And we are sailin', too,

Right into work that it doth bring,

And yanks us round a few.

Dear Editor:—The above beautiful and expressive lines are written on the spur of the moment—or rather two moments, and we trust they will convey to you the information that at this time of the year the O. M. is a mighty busy old chappie. We have lately been trying to "sleek up" a little around the "old manse," and these efforts take both time and strength, and except for the assistance we received from "Billy's kids," it is mainly accomplished by yours truly, so we give you fair warning, Mr. Ed., that our effusions, when we have time to effuse at all, will need a good deal of looking after. There will probably be errors in dates (and possibly figs) and it may be necessary at times, in order to maintain the excellence and high standing of the "great and only ADVERTISER," to exclude them altogether. At present we are feeling weary and heavy laden and have a desire to go away back and sit down and rest awhile on account of the foolish and senseless things done by our great and wise men in Washington. Just at present Gen. Miles is all tore out because he can't be the "whole thing" with a little bit left over, and the Secretary of War is all kerflumuxed (this word is of our own coinage and has long been in use by us) because he is unable to "Root" around to his entire satisfaction and there you have it, if it isn't one thing it is another, and sometimes we think it would be feasible to go out into the country somewhere and collect a lot of "waybacks," shake 'em up well and send them to the capitol. We almost believe that about as much sensible legislation would be accomplished and we should hear much less bickering. Another thing that "riles" us up and makes us wish the whole lot were "turned out to pasture" is the way congress is fooling or dilly-dallying on the matter of reciprocity and relief for Cuba. What under the canopy was the use to go to war with Spain, a war that has sent the reputation of almost every prominent officer engaged in it (except "Teddy") to eternal smash, and relieve them of Spanish bondage to dump the poor "critters" overboard and leave them "in the soup" as it were. The inhabitants of the infant republic have spent a large sum of money and run in debt for a good deal of it equipping themselves so as to make a living in the production of sugar, expecting Uncle Sam to be a large purchaser on terms that would yield them a comfortable income. To be sure the "lower house," after much wrangling have, with generosity unheard of, voted a concession of 20 per cent. on the present existing tariff; well, how much relief is that going to give them. The duty on sugar as now exacted from the Cubans is a fraction short of one and seven-tenths of a cent on a pound, and after the proposed reduction there will still be left a tax of about one and three-tenths of a cent. Gen. Wood, President Palmer and others well posted on the condition of the island aver that nothing short of a 50 per cent. reduction on the existing tariff will give substantial and permanent relief to this struggling people.

Keystone Adjustable Weeder.

This Weeder is one of the Greatest Labor-Saving Implements in the cultivation of crops. By its intelligent use crops can be raised with little, if any, hand hoeing. The Keystone Weeders sold last year gave splendid satisfaction. Not only can they be used as a weeder, but are just the thing to rake in grass seed, and being adjustable, can be closed up to less than 3 feet, and used as a shallow cultivator. Just the thing to put the finishing touch to crops. There will be a big demand for them this season. Order early and make sure of getting one.

Mysterious Double Tragedy.

Newark, N. J., March 25.—Lillian Wilson, an unmarried woman about 50 years old, shot and killed Robert S. Hutchinson, about 35 years old, yesterday, and then drank two bottles of carbolic acid. She died while being taken to a hospital. Hutchinson was supposed to be Miss Wilson's nephew. No cause is known for the murder and suicide.

The four-story tenement block of Peter C. Wier of Wilkinsville, Mass., was burned. Loss $5000.

Stronger Forces for Isthmus.

Colon, March 25.—The government gunboat General Pinzon arrived here yesterday with 600 troops from the department of Santander. Other battalions will be brought to the isthmus should their presence be required.

Not a Patent Medicine.

There is no secret about Vinol—it is nothing but the curative elements which are found in Cod-Liver Oil, dissolved in a delicate table wine with a little organic iron added—that's all; no grease, no bad taste, a simple and wholesome medicine with a remarkable curative power.

Everything that is in Vinol is plainly printed on the label of each package. We know Vinol is a splendid preparation for tired, pale and weak women and children, old people and all persons who are run down, nervous or losing flesh. We are satisfied that Vinol is the best tonic reconstructor we have ever sold, and in many cases we have been able to see for ourselves the wonderful results it brings about. Remember that we guarantee Vinol and refund the purchase money to all who are not satisfied.
