Local Girl Tells Of Trip She Won To Springfield

by MARY BENTLEY

(Former Pilot correspondent who won a trip to Springfield and who later remained for the entire week to help Miss Eleanor Bateman, Home Economist of the Institute by giving information and answering questions on proper ways to cook eggs and poultry.)

The grounds of the Eastern States Exposition in West Springfield, Massachusetts are deserted today. The buildings are empty, closed and locked until next fall, but one week ago the Exposition grounds were thronged with thousands of people who came from all the Eastern states to see the exhibits featured at this year's exposition.

The fair grounds spread over a large area and include everything from a gala midway to a typical New England village reconstructed in the center of the grounds. The Avenue of States was an important feature of particular interest to citizens of New England because here New Hampshire, Connecticut, Vermont, Maine and Massachusetts each have a building to display exhibits of the industries and crafts of the states.

In the center of the New Hampshire building a large revolving merry-go-round was the main feature which carried out the theme of the New Hampshire display, the poultry industry. The merry-go-round had an egg grazing machine which several New Hampshire 4-H members operated during the week, also on the merry-go-round were a pen of small New Hampshire "Red" chicks, a pen of older chicks, and one of full grown hens and roosters. A pen of white turkeys and a glass map of New Hampshire filled with eggs occupied the honor exhibit with a set up of two electric trains which represented the carloads of eggs and poultry which are shipped from New Hampshire each day.

Puppet Show Features Women's Club Opening

The Newmarket Women's club opens its fall season Tuesday, October 19, with a puppet show by Helen Rotch Ferguson of Milford. Because the two plays she will give have an appeal to children as well as to adults, the Home Economics department members are inviting the children of Women's club members to be their guests.

The Home Economics department is acting as hostesses for the evening with Mrs. Stella Langley, chairman. The program was secured through the efforts of Mrs. Mildred Rooney.

Square Dances For Newmarket Saturdays

The Square Dances which are growing in popularity throughout New Hampshire are coming to Newmarket. The VFW auxiliary is planning square and modern dancing at the VFW home each Saturday evening beginning this week.

They have secured an out of town orchestra with a caller. Dancing will begin at 8 o'clock and continue until midnight with a .60 admission charge.

Fight Lack of Money With Much Hard Work

The Newmarket firemen believe in backing up their desire for a new fire house with hard work. They have been coming before the voters for a long time now asking for a new firehouse and then for the fire-damaged Primary school. They have met one set back after another until finally the State Tax commission ruled that the matter must come before a Special Town Meeting.

Jumping this hurdle with an appropriation of $24,000 the men felt sure they would see the firehouse materialize. A building committee was named and a call put out for bids. Several bids were returned, but they were all above the appropriation. This much of the story is known to Newmarket folks, but perhaps the sequel which is unfolding this week is not known.

The Building committee has altered the plans for the remodelled building simplifying many of the details and curtailing many of the extras which looked so nice on the blue print. Fire Chief Fred J. Lavalley called out the department each evening this week, and these men, tired after a day's work in their respective jobs, have turned to, pulled out the front of the (Continued on page 5)

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

U. S. Farms Can't Hold All of Their Population

By WALTER A. SHEAD

WHY, with the increased demand for farm products and the fact that farming is more prosperous than ever before in its history, is there a continual and rapid decrease in farm population?

The bureau of agricultural economics in answer to that question told this reporter that the basic reason is simply that there are too many farmers. As a matter of fact, the farmers can do the job they are doing with many less farmers than there are today.

Actual farm population of the country as of January 1 this year was 27,439,000 which is a decrease of three million since 1940. So in seven years there was a migration of three million persons away from the farms and to the cities.

Even so, there are still more than enough farmers to do the gigantic job of production which has been asked of the farmers of the nation, for one out of every three adult persons who live on farms has either a part-time or full-time job in the cities and towns.

In 1944 which was one of the peak years of farm production there were only 25,630,000 persons living on farms, the main reason being that the young men had gone to war.

There simply isn't room enough or work enough on the farms to take up the population born on farms. Farm population would double itself in a generation. The birth rate in the rural areas is 19.1 as compared to 17.1 in urban areas to every 1,000.

For three decades, technological development, increased yields per acre despite rapid population increases of the nation as a whole and consequent increased demands for more food, have brought about a trend of migration away from the farms. And were it not for the higher standard of living brought about by the advent of electricity and other conveniences on farms, this migration would be even more rapid than it is today.

Machine and power tools, better housing and schools, the automobile—all have been a deterrent to prevent this out-farm movement, but it hasn't been enough and the simple fact remains that the nation still could do with fewer farmers and still produce sufficient quantities of food to feed the country and part of the world.

Even back in 1930 when there were not many jobs in cities, one out of seven farmers went to the cities to work. In 1940 one out of five farmers worked in cities and towns and as pointed out above, today one out of three adults make their living or part of it working off the farms. While this migration has been mostly from the smaller and less economically prosperous farms, even on large commercial farms and the better family-size farms the ratio of adults working in the cities holds good.

Cabinet Post

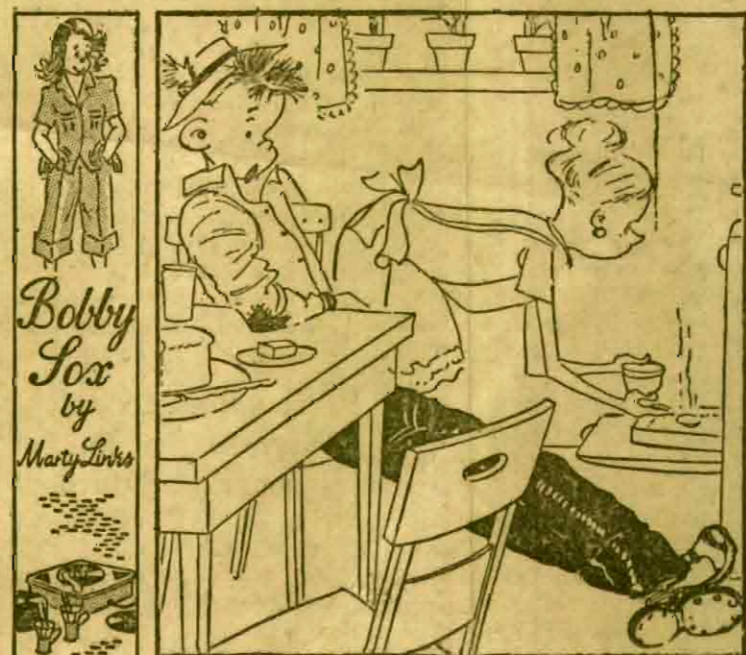

Many of the political dopesters here say that the next secretary of agriculture, if Governor Dewey is elected, will be Congressman Clifford Hope of Kansas, chairman of the house agricultural committee.

Probably standing head and shoulders above Congressman Hope as a statesman is Sen. George D. Aiken (Rep., Vt.), who will head the senate agricultural committee in the 81st congress, and who is author of the new long-range farm bill. But Senator Aiken is too independent and too liberal.

This column predicts the next secretary of agriculture, provided, of course, Dewey is the choice of the people, will be someone like Milton Eisenhower, president of Kansas State college and brother of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower.

Farm Co-ops Grow

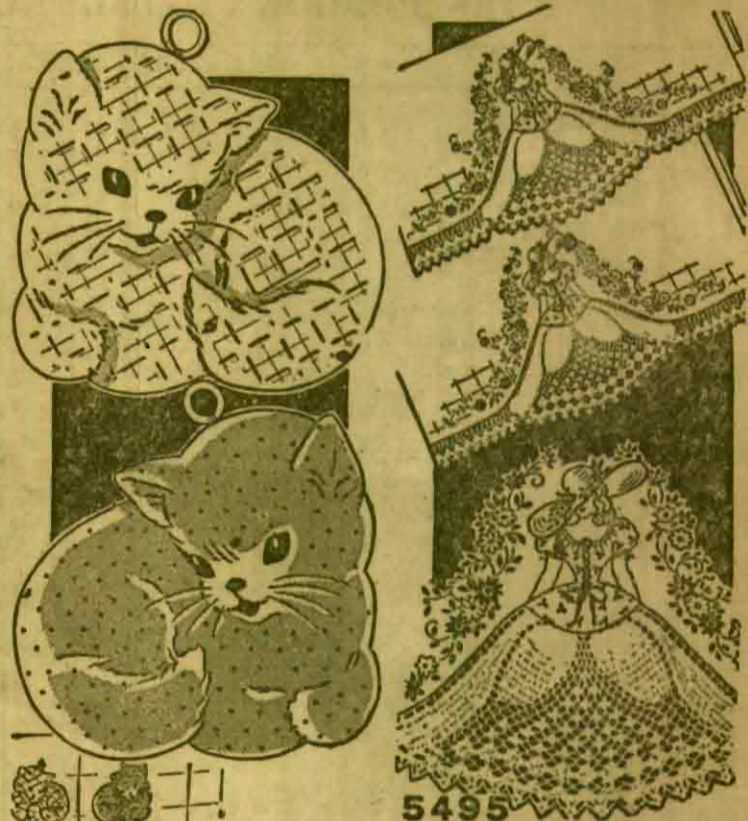

Despite fights being made on farm co-ops by some politicians, membership in the past year has increased by 400,000 to 5,438,000 members according to the co-op research and service division of the farm credit administration. Business of the 10,125 co-ops increased 16 per cent to $7,116,000,000 for the year. Sixty per cent of the business was in the 10 states of California, Minnesota, Illinois, Iowa, New York, Wisconsin, Ohio, Missouri, Indiana and Washington.

Cordell Hull Realized the Seriousness Of Situation Facing Post-War World

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WASHINGTON.—"I wish," he said, "I wish I could burn this into your minds and memories for the next 50 years at least—that the human race this hour, this day, this week, this year is confronted with the gravest crisis in all its experience, and that we who are here on the scene of action, at this critical time, have the responsibility of saying what way the world is going for 50 years to come."

Those words I recorded in 1945 as the war in Europe was drawing to its close. They were spoken by a man now retired from public life who is living to see their significance growing each day—Cordell Hull who on October 2 reached his 77th year.

He spoke that sentence at an off-the-record press conference in his office in the old State, War and Navy building and the fire of conviction in his voice created such an impression that we asked him to let us quote him directly that one sentence. For that reason I have been able to reproduce it literally.

BAUKHAGE

Since that day in 1945 we have seen President Roosevelt die and Secretary Hull retire; peace came in Europe; the United Nations founded and then, all unexpectedly, the new and terrible force released which brought the sudden cessation of hostilities in the Far East.

We saw, too, (few of us realized it) a tiny cloud no bigger than a man's hand, take shape on the horizon of world relations.

Cordell Hull realized the necessity of maintaining friendly relations between the United States and Russia. Against the advice of his physicians and the wishes of the wife to whom he was devoted, he flew to Moscow to talk to the one man upon whom the future of world peace then seemed to depend.

I had the great privilege of talking with Secretary Hull on the eve of his departure for Moscow. When I was shown into his office he was sitting at the great desk in the room from whose windows have looked so many of the great statesmen who have been America's spokesman to the world.

The office of the secretary of state has been removed from the ancient rococo building next to the White House which, with its high ceilings, its gloomy marble corridors, wide stairways and its fireplaces, which was filled with a certain odor of sanctity, slightly tinged with a touch of obsolescence which spoke of days and eras that were gone forever.

Today, the offices of the men who direct our foreign affairs are housed in an ultra-modern building, air-cooled, brisk, almost modernistic in its design. But I can imagine that History, as she solemnly records each day's agenda of 1948, must smile a bit ironically when she notes the similarity of today's record and that which was the chief concern of Cordell Hull.

When he rose to greet me on the occasion of my earlier interview with the courtesy which was a natural characteristic and one not acquired by acquaintanceship with the masters of diplomatic protocol, his desk was covered with papers. He indicated them with a gesture and explained that they all dealt with his forthcoming mission to Moscow.

We talked for a long time and the viewpoint he expressed then concerning our policy toward Russia remained unchanged on his return.

Russia's Background Forms Her Attitude

I saw him again with a small group after his return and he reminded us that Russia's attitude must be considered against her background, that she was a nation which had been virtually locked up for 25 years and during all that time had heard nothing but epithets against her, that she had cultivated the habit of slapping back twice as hard whenever she heard anything she thought was criticism against her.

Thus, a defense psychology was built up a suspicious attitude toward the whole world, which made the Soviet psychology entirely different from ours. Each had much to learn from the other, both must improve, and that, Hull said, would take time.

He felt very much the same way when he concluded his memoirs this year and offered this advice:

"In dealing with the Soviet Union we must never waver in this determination or give any evidence of weakness, or cease to insist that, although she is entitled to freedom from intervention in her domestic affairs by any other nation, her government has no right to force communism on other nations or to intervene in their domestic affairs in any other way."

As Cordell Hull looked back on his long period of public service the last years of which covered the most trying times up to then that our nation has faced, he came to the conclusion which more and more of our great leaders are reaching today and he said.

"We have a desperate need for more religion and morality as the background for government. The religious and moral foundations for thought and conduct require strengthening here as well as throughout the world. There is no higher civilizing influence than religious and moral concepts. Corruption and tyranny can be driven out of government only when these concepts give men the faculty to recognize such evils and the strength to eliminate them."

If the political pendulum swings at the next election as is likely, and the logical appointee for the office of secretary of state is named, it will be John Foster Dulles. It will be a satisfaction to many to know that he shares the views of Mr. Hull in so far as they both recognize the importance of the influence of religion in the carrying out of our relations, domestic as well as international.

For those who, as Cordell Hull said, "are here on the scene of action at this critical time," this fact is vital, since we have the responsibility of saying "what way the world is going for 50 years to come."

Charles E. Hughes—Two-Career Man

To mention the office of secretary of state naturally brings forth memories of another great statesman who held that office and whose death occurred recently—Charles Evans Hughes.

Chief Justice Hughes had a remarkable career. In fact he had two careers, each lasting 43 years. The first as a brilliant and successful lawyer in private practice and the second as a public servant holding among others two of the highest positions in public life in America, secretary of state and chief justice.

I happened to be present on two occasions within a few hours of each other which might be the high and the low point of any man's career.

With a group of reporters covering his headquarters in New York on election day I bid him good-night, fully believing as he and all of us did, that he was the president-elect. I saw him the next morning when he came to the door of his hotel room with a grandchild in his arms to take in the morning paper which recorded the late returns from the West and gave the majority of the electoral votes to Woodrow Wilson.

That same night Woodrow Wilson had gone to bed accepting defeat. The only paper supporting him which failed to haul down the flag (signal of Republican victory) was the old New York Evening Post whose special correspondent, David Lawrence, had predicted Wilson's re-election and stuck to it when he was almost alone in his belief.

How much of a disappointment Hughes suffered it's hard to say. No man was ever more reluctant about accepting the candidacy and the fact that he received such a proportionately large popular vote must have been gratification enough. He looked forward with anticipation and pleasure to his return to private life but his keen interest in the law caused him to accept the judgeship on the world court.

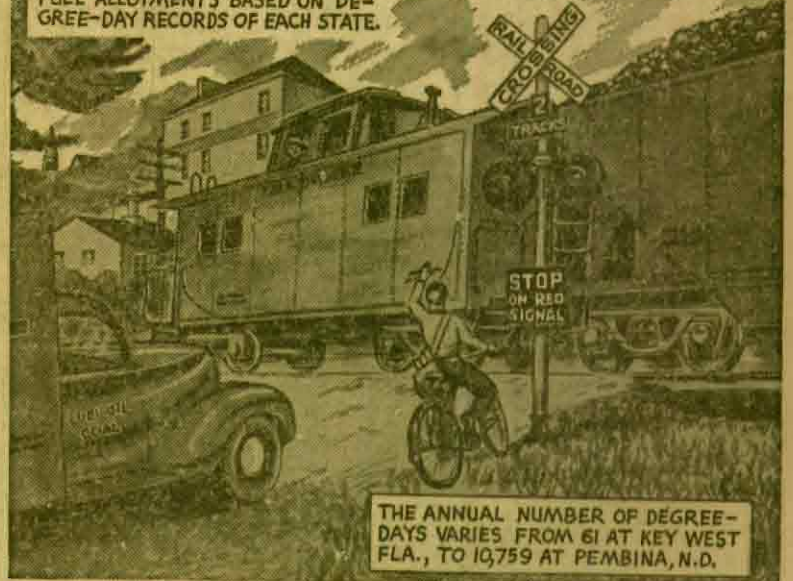

He made a brilliant secretary of state under Harding and continued under President Coolidge. His selection as chief justice of the supreme court by President Hoover was perhaps a most fortunate thing in the light of the crisis brought about by the famous "court packing" fight under Roosevelt.

His success as Chief Justice was due not only to his remarkable knowledge of the law but his tremendous capacity for work and his ability to reconcile different points of view among the members without attempting to enforce his own legal viewpoint upon the individual.

Hughes was a brilliant speaker. He spoke naturally and easily, yet with an excellent choice of words. Although he was extremely dignified in appearance and manner he was able to convey a warmth of feeling which immediately aroused sympathy and interest in an audience.

The State House Journal

by ENOCH SHENTON

A Republican machine that in three consecutive Presidential years has nailed down a clear victory in state contests, only to lose New Hampshire's Electoral College vote to the Democrats, put on its 1948 victory suit at Concord Tuesday—and hoped the pants weren't missing. There was a note of confidence as the convention was brought to order by Gov. Earl Warren of California, the party's candidate for vice president. The avowed aim of State Chairman Richard Cooper of Rochester was to organize the campaign so the state's electoral votes will go to Gov. Tom Dewey. If successful, that phase of the campaign would be the first victory in 16 years.

Likeable young "Dick" Cooper was reelected by acclaim as the party state chairman. Only 35, he has served as chairman for the past year and injected a new, possibly more liberal slant into a stodgy GOP organization. In his official capacity he extended a warm welcome to Harold Stassen when the big Minnesotan came here last winter on his Presidential stump tour. Since then he has sparked the younger element in the party to greater activity than was possible when the chairmanship was dominated by the old "war horses."

Cooper's principal aides in the campaign will all be young men. There will be Atty. Wesley Powell of Portsmouth, Senator Bridges' administrative assistant in Washington. James Anton of Concord, US Senate attache, and Rep. John Pillsbury of Manchester, another federal official, will head the GOP speakers bureau. Hamilton Putnam of Wilton, former newspaperman, will handle publicity. None are older than Cooper himself.

These "youngsters" who will run the public phases of the campaign will have offices two blocks away from the party's "political" headquarters. Publicity, the speakers bureau and finance offices will be in the First National bank building in Concord. The main office is at 88 North Main street. Thus the political contacts will be separated from the working branches of the campaign committee. The GOP also has taken over Sherm Adams' office at 136 North Main street, where he ran his primary campaign for governor.

GOP Mailing List

GOP Permanent Secretary Benjamin Greer has one of the choicest political directories in party history at his office. It consists of 100,000 metal addressograph plates containing the names and addresses of every registered Republican in New Hampshire. The outfit, complete with the machine that stamps out plates, cost the GOP about $8,000. It was bought last year, so its cost doesn't count towards the $25,000 limit set by law for the state committee's annual expenditures.

The address plates are catalogued by towns and city wards, so campaign literature can be aimed directly into the county or senate district where it is needed. "Ben" figures the directory will pay for itself in a few years. It is available for use by any candidate for a Republican nomination in the primary. If a candidate for Governor or senator wants to write to every Republican in the state, Ben sells him the whole list for $500. The cost is $250 for the mailing list in each Congressional district. For smaller districts, Ben charges a cent for every name. Of course, the system is owned by the party, so it will be used without charge to canvass the GOP voters of the state between now and the Nov. 2 election. Ben figures he will canvass the entire list by mail at least once before then.

UNH Prexy Press-Conscious

Dr. Arthur S. Adams, new president of the University of New Hampshire, plans to make full use of the tools he has at the fine old Durham institution. He has ordered a change in status for the university editorial office, which has been attached to the Extension Service since it was established several years ago. The entire UNH public relations office will be transferred to the president's office, with Director Francis Robinson serving as personal representative of Dr. Adams in all matters that affect the press and radio.

Robbie's assistant in the news bureau will be Franklin Heald, now chief of the Associated Press bureau in New Hampshire. Heald, native of Littleton where his father er was town clerk for many years, leaves the AP next week to move into his UNH job. He will handle all campus news and edit the "Alumnus," official magazine of the university's alumni association. Before the war, Heald was reporter for several New Hampshire newspapers, including the old Manchester Union. He was a naval officer during the war, returned to newspaper work as a reporter for the AP after V-J day.

Heald fills the vacancy on the UNH press staff left by Vincent R. Dahlfred, former Concord newspaperman who quit this summer to take over the weekly Free Press in Somersworth. Cy Douglass, chief of the Associated Press in New England, hasn't made public his choice of a successor for Heald in the Concord AP bureau. But it is reported the new bureau chief will be Deak Morse, able sports editor of the late-lamented N. H. Sunday News staff. Lanky, lucid Morse was formerly connected with the AP, made a reputation for himself when he took over the sports desk of the state's Sunday paper about two years ago.

State Budget is Tough

State Comptroller Arthur E. Bean is deep in a mass of figures, studying budget estimates for the 1949-51 fiscal period. The estimates are coming from the administrators of state departments and institutions in response to Gov. Charles M. Dale's orders to "get an early start" on the new budgets that will be presented to the 1949 Legislature by his successor.

After looking over the situation, Bean is convinced finances are the worst problem facing the new General Court to be elected Nov. 2. Money is a puzzle for the comptroller, too. It's his job to compile the various budget requests for the new governor, and help him prepare his formal budget message to the Legislature. The governor not only has to tell the lawmakers how much money is needed to run the state government for the next two years, but also must tell them where the money will come from.

The operating budget of the state probably will be about $15,000,000 for each year. That's $1,500,000 a year more than the present rate of spending. And it's about $2,500,000 more than income is expected to be. All of which leaves a neat riddle for the incoming Governor and the House ways and means committee to solve. It's up to them to find enough new revenue to meet the indicated deficit.

Beans reports state institutions will need more money for food, clothing, supplies and salaries. The recent telephone rate increase means a sizeable jump in the item for "communications". It cost $180,000 this year. Travel for state employees, a $1,000,000 item this year, will be up about 20 percent. Coal, which state institutions used to buy for $7 a ton, is now about $14—and the State Hospital alone uses about 13,000 tons a year.

The whole financial situation is a challenge to the new Governor and Legislature. And the easiest solution—through amendment of the constitution to broaden the tax base—is not expected to win the required two-thirds vote from the electorate in November.

About New Hampshire

The League of New Hampshire Arts and Crafts will hold its 17th annual meeting at the Sharon Art center Oct. 14. Guilds and branches of the league will exhibit examples of the work done by amateur craftsmen, attracting many visitors to the new art center.

With only the possibility of rain held out for the last half of this week, the forest situation becomes more critical. Watch that butt!

Harvest Supper Oct. 7

The Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliary is serving a public harvest supper Thursday night Oct. 7, from 5 to 7 o'clock in the VFW home.

Home baked beans, salads and assorted home baked pies with all the relishes, hot rolls and coffee which normally round out such a menu is being planned. A large committee of members are working toward its success.

"That Lady in Waiting" Has Eight Song Hits

A Betty Grable musical is a red letter event in any film season. But the screen's top ranking musical star, singing, dancing and romancing with Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. in a scintillating story in technicolor is cause for extra celebration.

Such a picture, "That Lady in Waiting", opens at the Strand theatre, Dover, Sunday. Flooded with scenes of breath taking splendor, saucy situations, high spirited humor, the film unfolds the story of a glamorous Countess who saves the ancestral castle from the siege of the dashing, romantic colonel. This is played by Douglas Fairbanks who sings, dances and plays the piano for the first time in his screen career. Eight new song hits are included.

Polish Club Swept Both Ends of Series

The Polish Club swept both ends of a weekend series with the Twi-League All-Stars by the scores of 4 to 2 and 14 to 8.

Saturday's game was thriller all the way as Frank Homiak and Channing Marshall tangled in a pitching duel. With the All-Stars leading 2 to 1, the infield blew up in sixth and made two miscues to allow the Club to tally three runs and sew the game. Homiak struck out 15 batsmen and Marshall fanned 12.

Sunday's game was a poorly played one by both sides with errors in all innings and the only thrill was Rusty's Sharples line drive homer over the left center-field fence with one aboard in the ninth.

Firemen Work Hard

They have worked by artificial light until the clouds of plaster dust have rolled up so dense you could not see who was working. Ralph Haines, who is serving on the Building Committee, has gone down each night with his big truck which he has maneuvered into position himself and driven off with the debris. The only recesses called in the former school house where many of the men learned to read and write are for a quick drink to wash down a little plaster dust.

Fire Chief Lavalley and Adelard Babineau went into Boston Tuesday to buy steel and plumbing fixtures for the water and heating plant going into the new structure. Mr. Babineau will do the contract labor on the building, going as far as the appropriation permits.

The firemen hope, however, that the building will be completed for when the money gives out they can still work toward the goal about which they have talked for years. Decisions relative to the construction are in the hands of Mr. Lavalley and Mr. Haines.

Claudia Zuk Is Pretty Fall Bride

Miss Claudia Zuk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Zuk of 33 Lamprey street was the bride of Stanley W. Pitman, son of Mrs. Donald M. Pitman at a pretty ceremony solemnized Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Community church with Rev. Ernest A. McKenzie, pastor, officiating.

The altar was beautifully decorated with palms and white gladioli with sprays of the flowers marking the reserved pews. Miss Esther Varney was soloist, singing "Because" and "O Promise Me", accompanied by Thomas R. Rooney, organist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was gowned in heavy, candlelight satin with the full skirt extending over a wide hoop into a long train. The top of the dress was of net appliqued with saton hearts trimmed with seed pearls. Her heathcoat illusion veil extended from a seed pearl tiara matching the gown. She carried white baby gladioli, stephanotis and a white orchid.

Mrs. Kenneth Anderson was matron of honor, choosing a fuschia faille gown fashioned with a peter pan collar, cap sleeves and a full skirt. She wore mitts extending from above the elbows to points over the hands and she carried fuschia shaded poms caught with a silver bow.

The bridesmaids were Miss Eleanor Miesowicz of Newmarket and Miss Elaine Dutkowski of Boston who wore gowns of almond green in a style identical to the matron of honor. The attendants wore sheer headbands with shoulder length veils. The little flower girl, Miss Sharon South of Melrose, wore a fuschia dress, a replica of the matron of honor and carried a basket of rose petals. The bridesmaids carried yellow poms tied with gold ribbons.

Nicholas Zuk was best man and Kenneth E. Anderson of Newmarket and David T. Sheldon of Reading, ushers. The men of the wedding party wore cutaways.

Mrs. Zuk, mother of the bride, wore a plum colored dress with matching accessories and a purple colored orchid. Mrs. Pitman, mother of the bridegroom, wore gray with matching accessories and a purple orchid, and Mrs. Fred Pitman, grandmother, wore gray with black accessories and a purple orchid. Mrs. Edward Willard, maternal grandmother of bridegroom, wore sapphire blue with red roses.

The reception was held at the Polish hall with George Zuk in charge assisted by Michael Koren and Stanley Wojnar. Barbara Dutkowski of Boston was in charge of the guest book.

For traveling the bride wore a green wool gabardine suit with brown accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet. She was graduated from Newmarket High school and MacIntosh Business College and is employed at the local Post Office. The bridegroom was graduated from Wakefield High school and N. E. Aircraft of East Boston. During the war he served four years in the Army Air Force.

Wedding guests were present from Newmarket, Wakefield, Melrose, Reading, Forge Village, Lowell, Lawrence, Haverhill, North Chelmsford, Boston, Pawtucket and Graniteville, Vt.

MUNICIPAL COURT

John Dostie was fined $50. and cost of $5.20 in Newmarket Municipal court Tuesday morning when he pleaded guilty to driving a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor Monday night. He was arrested by local police on Packers Falls road about 11 o'clock following an accident.

Police reported he was operating a vehicle owned by Herbert Nelson of which he apparently lost control on the curve opposite the Newmarket Water Works. The car veered off the road to the extreme right and struck a car owned by Robert Goodreau parked in front of his home, it was said. The Nelson car tipped over. John was alone and uninjured when he was taken into custody.

Newmarket High School

by TRUDY GILLIS

National Education Week will be observed at Newmarket High school November 7 through 11 with an open house, classroom and laboratory displays and a special program to which parents and friends of the pupils will be invited.

The pupils are already preparing for the special observance. The Family class is working on its leisure time projects which they hope to exhibit, such projects as Swedish weaving, knitting, crocheting, sewing, painting. The Glee club is preparing special numbers for the evening program.

The Senior play committee, Pat Shelton, Lucille Hamel, Deborah Waugh, have settled on a play for their annual senior production. It is "The Campbells Are Coming", by Joy Tobias, a three act comedy of life in the Ozarks.

Miss Dorothy Maguire, the new coach, plans to hold tryouts soon. She has already sent away for books.

Miss Maguire is offering Sophomore, Junior and Senior English pupils an opportunity to buy The Readers Digest at school rates. She called for book reports from these three classes Wednesday.

Martha Knowles and Evelyn Bentley are selling ice cream this week.

The Glee club is planning its operetta the week before Spring vacation. Before this time, however, they will have sung for the National Education Week audience and for the Christmas Candlelight program at the Town Hall. The first six grades will be invited to participate at Christmas time.

Eddie Wojnar, commonly known as "Higgins", visited NHS Tuesday. He was graduated last June and is now home on leave from the U. S. Navy.

Trudy Gillis was assigned the job of dusting the Junior class every other day this week by Mr. Holmes.

Richard Cilley has returned to school after spending a week at Springfield Exposition where he was one of 1,000 4-H boys and girls assisting with the exhibits.

The Student Council elected Marilyn Abbott president last week. Other officers are Louise Mongeon, vice president; Lillian Pelczar, secretary; Donald Labranch, treasurer. They will name the proctors for the year and plan the social calendar for the school.

The advertising Committee for the Year book, Louise Mongeon, Madeline Blanchette and Allen Mastin, Jr. began soliciting advertisements for The Lamprey Wednesday.

Cheer Leaders will be chosen at tryouts to be held shortly. Two freshmen and one sophomore will be named. Joan Parent is dropping out which leaves a vacancy in the Sophomore class.

Word has been received that the Junior Class rings were shipped out September 27th. Juniors are paying Trudy Gillis, treasurer, for them now.

BERLIN REDS TAKE OVER CITY HALL . . . Part of the huge mob of German Communists that took over the Berlin city hall, preventing the meeting of the city council, are shown here spilling through the entrance to the building. This Communist-inspired mob forced the city council to retreat to the British zone of Berlin where regular council sessions were held without Russian interference. Incidentally, the photographer who took this excellent photo, was later arrested. The Russians get a little camera-shy at times and make life miserable for American press photographers.

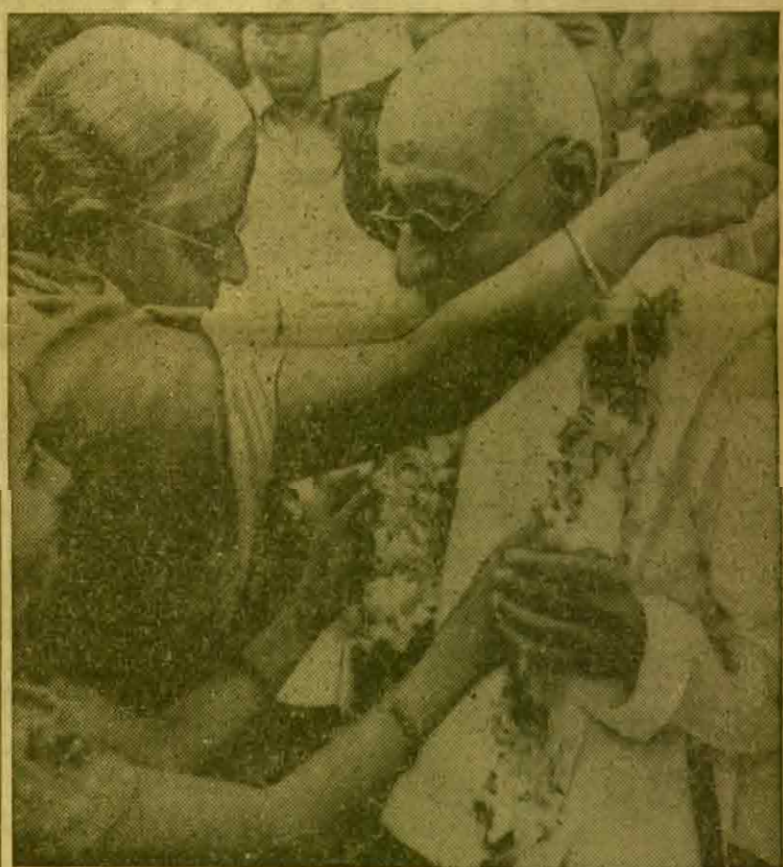

HAIL THE VICTOR . . . Comely Margaret Chase Smith, phoning, headed the list of victors in the smashing Republican victory in Maine's general election. Mrs. Smith received 75 per cent and a 97,000 majority of the tabulated votes. Happy Mrs. Smith is shown with friends as she receives congratulatory messages on her election to the U. S. senate. She is the first woman ever to be elected to the upper house of congress without having first served by appointment. Vote-getter Mrs. Smith has found the election-winning technique that other Republicans and Democrats are seeking so earnestly in preparation for November.

STILL IN THERE PITCHING . . . Four short years ago Corporal Harold Jaster, a combat marine, now the star pitcher for the naval air station at Floyd Bennet field, New York, was plucking Japanese grenades out of the air and throwing them back at the surprised enemy. The center photo shows Jaster receiving the silver star medal from Capt. Donald E. Wilcox, USN, commanding officer at Floyd Bennet field, in recognition of his grenade tossing activities. Picture at left shows Jaster as a combat marine four years ago, while the photo at the right shows Jaster as he appears as the field's team pitcher.

"BUZZIE" WINS POLIO FIGHT . . . The grandson of the late President Roosevelt, Curtis "Buzzie" Boettiger, 18, appears pale and a bit shaky following his recovery from a minor attack of polio. Following his release from the Corona, Calif., naval hospital, he applied for a passport. He will accompany his grandmother, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, to the United Nations sessions in Paris. Beside "Buzzie" is his mother, Mrs. Anna Boettiger.

INDIA'S PRIDE—"C. R." . . . To the first Indian governor general, Chakravarti Rajagopalacha Rajagopalachari, goes much of India's adulation since the death of Gandhi. The governor general is more generally referred to as "C. R." or "Rajaji" at most. During a tour of south India many women transferred necklaces from their necks to that of their loved "C. R." Such a scene is pictured here.

LUXURY ON RAILS . . . This interior view is of the new Twentieth Century Limited, which is scheduled soon to be placed in service. To make travel "comfy" the observation car features extra-large windows, comfortable chairs and sofas. Separated from this section by a large glass partition is a service bar. Lucky travelers!

Local Girl Tells

set up exhibits representing their farms, and there were booths representing the maple sugar industry, the vacation areas in the Eastern Slopes and Lakes regions, New Hampshire handicraft and some of the leading industries and factories in the state.

The other state buildings were colorful with vacation area exhibits, industries, crafts and particularly the state police and fish and game exhibits.

A left turn at the end of the Avenue of states leads to the Coleseum where a colorful rodeo from the Diamond B Ranch in Oklahoma and Florida was held each night adding thrills, chills and spills with calf-roping contests, bronc riding, steer roping, fancy roping and skillfully trained horses and riders. Parades, reviews, band concerts and cattle judging all were held in the Coleseum.

Also at this end of the grounds were the dairy barns with stall after stall of cattle and horses from the New England States, Pennsylvania, Maryland, New Jersey, Delaware and New York. One section of the barns housed the poultry show, and the stables across the grounds housed more horses and some sheep.

The large Camp Vail Building was jointly occupied by several youth organizations including Boy Scouts, Sea Scouts, Girl Scouts and 4-H clubs which set up exhibits explaining their services and purposes.

The industrial Arts building was a huge fair in itself, with commercial exhibits of sporting goods, household furnishings, farm machinery and every type of exhibit imaginable, so many that it would be impossible to see them all even after a week at the fair.

In the center of the fair grounds is a typical New England Village reconstructed over a period of years from old buildings doomed to destruction or decay but salvaged and moved piece by piece from all over New England to the Exposition grounds to house the Home Department of the Eastern States exposition. The village is called Storowton and contains three old homesteads completely furnished with antiques, a law office, a little red schoolhouse, a tavern and a general store from Massachusetts communities, a town meeting house from Salisbury, New Hampshire, and the village blacksmith's shop from Chesterfield, N. H. The old barn in the village was occupied by several arts and crafts exhibits and provided room for square dancing each night. Square dancing was held in costume on the village green each afternoon appropriately announced before hand by the town crier dressed in authentic costume.

Stunt shows, dare devil driving acts and automobile races provided afternoon entertainment, for animal lovers there were a cat show, dog show and a horse show.

And the Eastern States Exposition, a typical country fair on a larger scale, climaxed another season with the display of the summer's harvests bringing in the fall season, with gaiety and friendly cooperation in the arts and crafts, industries and agriculture.

The young women, Miss Carol and Miss Muriel Croeto, teachers in New York State, had just returned from a Youth Hostel tour of Norway, Sweden and Denmark, with an added boat trip to the Arctic Circle. Some of the touring was on bicycles. They found the people friendly and were frequently invited into their homes. They met many other hostellers from European countries.

The Once Over THE GARBLE SISTERS

By H. I. PHILLIPS

"Did you ever see anything more exciting than those big league baseball races? The Yanks are doing great since they got McDowell and Nixon. And the loss of Mitchum didn't hurt Brooklyn much."

"Orson Welles and Lucius Clay are a big help to the Braves, if you ask me."

"I see where Wilhelmina is out as queen of Yugoslavia after 50 years of bicycling."

"Yeah. But Juliana is having trouble forming a new cabinet. The de Gaulists won't come in unless they get a new type of money. What's new in Berlin?"

"The Big Four has finished its road tour and now has only home games. But it has too many double headers facing it under lights."

"Truman is off on a big campaign trip. He is going to keep Washington open to the Democrats even if he has to fly supplies in by plane, they tell me."

"Do you think Dewey will lift the blockade?"

"Only if the currency question is settled so Republican money will be as good as any other."

"The spy probe seems to have slowed up a little."

"I noticed that. Truman says he is opposed to it but at the same time he disapproves of throwing eggs at it."

"What's new with Henry Wallace?"

"Nothing, except that he denies he ever let Stassen lease his apartment or gave his old auto to J. Peters."

"What do you make of that latest Hollywood scandal?"

"More people smoke marijuana than ever before, I guess. But it looks like the producers have hired the best lawyer money can buy and will advise all reefer smokers to refuse to testify on the ground it will incriminate and degrade them."

"Why don't they let him answer yes or no?"

"They say the federal officers are a red herring to discredit that new movie."

"What new movie?"

"I forgot whether it is called Marijuana or Son of Marijuana."

"Do you think it will be a campaign issue this November?"

"No, there are too many other issues."

"What are they?"

"Oh, Truman is for less relief pitching, more enamel on new auto bodies and federal control of Leo Durocher. Dewey thinks a main cause of our troubles is too many bases on balls."

"What does Wallace stand for?"

"He wants to plow under every third tomato."

It develops that Lee Shubert had been married 12 years and kept it a complete secret. Now we know why Winchell was barred from the Shubert theaters.

And Lee was always telling the musical comedy authors, "The story is no good unless it winds up in marriage and it's all announced in a big finale with toasts and everything... You can't leave the audience in suspense."

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSES By Roger Whitman

QUESTION: We have just emptied the last gallon from our 50-gallon range-oil drum, and the drum seems to be full of rust. Is there any way to clean this out before we have it refilled?

ANSWER: I believe the lower inside part of the drum has probably corroded. If you do not wish to buy a new one, you might consider having the lower part cut out and a new piece welded on. After opening up the drum it can be cleaned out thoroughly before welding on the new piece.

QUESTION: I have a pair of wrought iron candlesticks. I have just removed a coat of shiny black enamel from them. Now what is the correct, dull black paint or finish to use on them?

ANSWER: First wipe with benzine to remove all traces of whatever kind of remover you used to take off the old finish. Be careful of fire when using benzine. Finish the pieces with a flat black paint intended for metal surfaces; the better stocked paint stores sell this paint.

don't use Harsh Laxatives

Keep regular
this healthful way—

The juice of a lemon in a glass of water, when taken first thing on arising, is all that most people need to insure prompt, normal elimination.

No more harsh laxatives that irritate the digestive tract and impair nutrition! Lemon in water is good for you!

Generations of Americans have taken lemons for health—and generations of doctors have recommended them. They are rich in vitamin C; supply valuable amounts of B₁ and P. They alkalize, aid digestion.

Not too sharp or sour, lemon in water has a refreshing tang—clears the mouth, wakes you up. It's not a purgative—simply helps your system regulate itself. Try it 10 days.
