NHS Changes Graduation Program

Newmarket High school will change its graduation program this year in order to keep step with the best educational trend. The Valedictory and Salutatory, and the guest speaker will be eliminated from the regular program. In its place a program will be provided by those members of the graduating class who have maintained an average of 85 per cent for four years, and who through their qualities of Character, Service and Loyalty have become eligible to join the National Honor Society, sponsored by the National Association of Secondary School principals.

The following eight people—Bouras, Aristotle; Glidden, Betty; Hale, Elaine; Lepage, Joseph; Parent, Eileen; Record, Beverlee; Roy, Dorothy; Thompson, Janet—will be inducted into the Junior Chapter of the National Honor Society on Thursday, May 20, at 1:00 P. M. by the members of the National Honor Society of Portsmouth High school.

These charter members will receive their membership cards and pins, and there will be an insignia placed on their diplomas signifying their membership in the National Honor Society.

The graduation program will consist of the induction of the following members of the Junior class: Abbott, Marilyn; Blanchette, Agnes; Bouse, William; Charest, Carolyn; Hamel, Lucille; Philbrick, Richard; Shetton, Patricia; Stevens, Marguerite; Walker, Shirley. These people are now eligible to become members of the Lamproy Chapter of the National Honor Society in Newmarket High school. The induction team will consist of members of the graduating class who have prepared an impressive ceremony.

We trust that in following this policy more members of Newmarket High school will be inspired to become better students, and there by to become eligible for membership in this organization at the end of the junior year. Instead of two pupils being singled out to receive honors, the average will probably be nearer eight. All members of the National Honor society will automatically receive the certification of Newmarket High school to the college of their choice.

James Cotter of Ash Swamp road on entering his house one evening, after a hard day's work, found his stove missing. It was a gas and coal stove and worth at least $150. Mr. Cotter lives in the house called the Tom Norton place. The door was locked with a common key and the thieves had one that fitted.

Mr. Cotter was not the only one to suffer from thieves. Bert Tebbetts visited his camp recently and found that the two iron kettles which he kept in the front yard full of plans, and which he prized very much as they were given him by a dear friend, now dead, were stolen. The staple on the door of the camp had been removed and he found on entering that another iron kettle and all his canned stuff had been stolen and on going out into the shed he found all his tools missing and as if that wasn't enough, even the old clothes hanging up in the shed had been taken. Even the cuplets on the pump had been removed.

Bert thinks next time they may take the HOUSE?

Soviets Express Desire for Peace, Agree to Discussion; U. S. Seizes Rails, Unions Obey Order to Cancel Strike

By BILL SCHOENTGEN
WNU Staff Writer

OVERTURE: Peaceful

All of a sudden the air between Washington and Moscow was filled with talk of peace and desire for co-operation.

Exactly what had happened to bring about the quick flow of the milk of human kindness between the U. S. and Russia was not clear. Certainly there had occurred no basic change in the potentially explosive relationship.

It began with a U. S. statement of position, voiced by Bedell Smith, ambassador to Russia, in the presence of Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov.

Smith, apparently speaking officially, suggested that the way is clear for a discussion of differences with Russia. Said the U. S. ambassador:

"The present state of U. S.-Soviet relations is a source of grievous disappointment to the American people. As far as the United States is concerned, the door is always wide open for full discussion and the composing of our differences."

Russia's reply, as broadcast by the Moscow radio, expressed a positive attitude toward improving Soviet-American relations and stated that Russia "is in agreement" with a U. S. proposal for "discussion and settlement of existing differences."

Although these developments received a big play in the press and radio of both nations, indications were strong that the aura of mutual hostility separating the U. S. and Russia might not be dispelled by the willingness to "compose our differences."

Neither side had modified its foreign policy. Rather, each had emphasized it in the exchange of notes.

The U. S. statement said, in part: "The concern and the determination of the people of the United States have been intensified by the inexplicable hostility of the Soviet government to the European recovery program—a measure which in its inception and subsequent developments is so obviously only a measure of American assistance for reconstruction on a co-operative basis without menace or threat to anyone."

There was a suspicion abroad that Russia, balked in its ambitions to expand into western Europe by the European recovery program, might be ready now to try to make some kind of deal.

ALL ABOARD: Trains Run

U. S. economy escaped being a victim of railroad paraplegia at the eleventh hour when three rail brotherhoods yielded to a restraining order brought against them by the government and called off their impending strike.

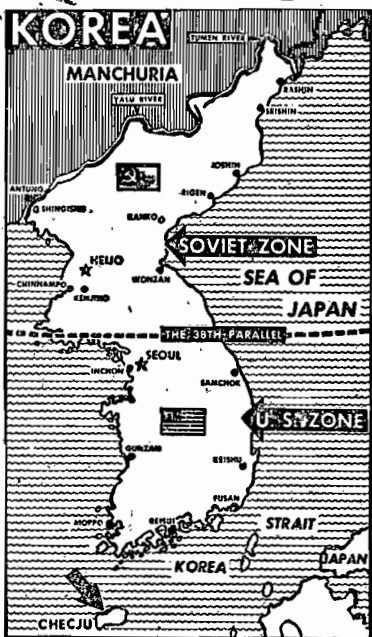

Events leading up to that climax had run a course which has become familiar to strike-weary Americans.

Negotiations between the railroads and the three dissenting brotherhoods—engineers, firemen and switchmen—had been fruitless. As the strike deadline approached they remained miles away from any kind of agreement on wages and working conditions.

By that time President Truman had built up a full head of steam and he opened the throttle wide. The U. S. could not stand "a nationwide tragedy" such as the rail strike would be, he said.

Acting under the sanction of a 1916 law which authorizes the government to take over the railroads during the time of war (U. S. is still, officially, in a state of wartime emergency) Mr. Truman seized the Latest area to emerge as a pivotal point in the world-wide drive against communism is southern Korea where about seven million registered voters went to the polls to elect 200 representatives to what is known as the Korean national assembly. Prior to the election, Communist-trained agents were reported to have been attempting to stir up trouble in the U. S. zone to influence the balloting.

Eastern Hotspot

entire vast network of tracks and trains in the name of the federal government.

That move paved the way for a court order restraining the unions from striking for eight days. Federal District Judge T. Alan Goldsborough issued the order and the nation's trains kept running, for the time being, at least.

Possibly proving that there is no wind so ill that it doesn't blow up some good for somebody, one of the major influences leading to cancellation of the rail strike was John L. Lewis, who didn't have a word to say about it.

But Lewis had set the pattern. The rail union leaders—Alvanley Johnston of the engineers, D. B. Robertson of the firemen and A. J. Glover Jr. of the switchmen—were uncomfortably aware of what happened to the mine chief when he disobeyed an injunction to call off his soft coal strike.

They knew that if they disobeyed Judge Goldsborough's restraining order they would be exposing themselves and their unions to whopping big fines and possible jail sentences.

It was becoming apparent that the government had hit upon a hard-fisted way of delaying crippling strikes. With labor unrest destined to grow this summer, that method, though far from ideal, might come to be the basic formula for inducing arbitration and settlement of strikes.

SMOKE, SMOKE, SMOKE

Americans Burning More Cigarettes

Cigarette consumption in the U. S. in 1947 ascended to an all-time high for the 14th consecutive year, despite spectacular wartime gains which would have made a subsequent postwar decline no great surprise to the industry.

According to an article in the May edition of "Business Comment," bulletin of Northern Trust company, total output of 370 billion cigarettes last year was 5 per cent greater than in 1946.

"Per capita cigarette consumption in the U. S. has followed an upward trend, with minor interruptions, since prior to World War I," the

FARM ISSUE: Truman's

Rather hard put for a good, earthy issue to play upon in his coming campaign, President Truman has hit upon the farm problem as the vehicle to carry some of his convictions before the public.

He began by planning a message to congress on the subject of long-range agricultural legislation. The idea was originated by the retiring Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson who opined that such a plea to congress would put the Republicans "on the spot."

The message which Mr. Truman was preparing would ask for an "adequate appropriation" to continue the government farm program, "particularly on soil conservation," according to Alben Barkley, senate Democratic leader.

Barkley acidulously recalled that the President had asked in his budget message for 300 million dollars for soil conservation in the coming fiscal year, and that congress had cut that sum to 225 million.

"Mr. Truman feels strongly" that 300 million dollars is the minimum for the work, Barkley said.

Many U. S. farmers would be inclined to agree. Soil conservation was important now and destined to grow in importance in the immediate future. It would make a good issue.

WHEAT: Big Crop

Word from the department of agriculture was that the U. S. would produce the third largest wheat crop in history this year.

The department stuck to that prediction even though it had reduced its estimate of the important winter wheat crop by 14.5 million bushels from the April 1 estimate.

Except in parts of the southern great plains, the crop made good progress, it was revealed in an official department report.

As of May 1, prospects were for a total of 1.117 billion bushels of wheat. Largest crop was 1.36 billion bushels last year. Production in the 1936-45 period averaged 890 million bushels.

Department of agriculture estimated the fall-sown winter wheat crop at about 845 million bushels, a decline of 14.5 from its April 1 forecast. No official estimate of spring wheat was available, but a guess was that average yields should produce 272 million bushels.

Generalizing on over-all crop prospects, the department said satisfactory progress of spring farm work, delayed by wet weather in March, was possible during most of April in virtually all of the country east of the Rocky mountains.

DIXIE:

Anti-Truman

Although President Harry Truman had not held forth publicly on the subject of civil rights for some time now, the echoes of the civil rights program he advanced earlier this year were rattling around like sabers south of the Mason-Dixon line.

Alabama voters had expressed themselves as being anti-Truman. In the state's primary election they had given majorities to candidates pledged to cast electoral votes against the President because of the civil rights issue.

It was the first concrete indication that a bolt from the regular Democratic party nominee might not be unlikely next November if the nominee (like Mr. Truman) is committed to supporting the civil rights program.

And in Jackson, Miss., a "state's rights" Democratic rally was keynoted with a flat prediction that President Truman would not be re-elected because he is not acceptable to the nation or the southern Democrats.

Gov. J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina defined the South's stand when he told the rally that the South is not in revolt against the Democratic party but against its present leadership.

Spark that kindled the political fire in the South was Mr. Truman's espousal of proposals to pass federal laws outlawing lynching, poll taxes, job discrimination and segregation of races. Legislation like that, Governor Thurmond asserted, would violate the historic principle of the right of states to determine their own attitude toward such matters.

There was talk at the Jackson rally of holding a national nominating convention of southern Democrats at Birmingham if the regular Democratic convention nominated President Truman.

So far it was only talk, but anti-Truman feeling had crystallized in the South to the point where party leaders were badly worried. If the Dixie Democrats carried their defection to the ultimate point of nominating their own candidate, the big-wigs might as well throw in the sponge for the '48 elections and start looking to 1952.

RETURN? Not Yet

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, addicted though he may be to the classic historic concept of "withdrawal and return" as a means of gaining public support and following, will not return to the U. S. to campaign for presidential nomination.

He is, one of his spokesmen announced, keeping himself on the leash in Tokyo as supreme commander of the Allied occupation powers.

Brig. Gen. Courtney Whitney, government section chief, flatly denied that MacArthur has "any plans at present to return to the United States."

Faced with reports that the general was thinking of furthering his political ambitions in the states, General Whitney said, "You can tell your friends to lay odds that it won't happen. MacArthur will remain at his desk and continue to administer the occupation."

With refreshing candor Whitney added that he isn't planning to return to the U. S. either to handle MacArthur's campaign.

Housing Shortage

To the accompaniment of vociferous objections by various parliament members, the British government disclosed in the house of commons that it is spending $200,000 to alter and modernize the town house of Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

Labor party members criticized the move on the grounds that thousands of Britons need homes more than the Princess does.

PLANT LIFE:

Appetites

Atomic scientists have learned that some plants, like human beings, are finicky eaters.

This new knowledge, important commercially, is the result of exhaustive tests with radioactive isotopes of phosphorous.

Now science can tell a farmer who spends $50 to put phosphate fertilizer on his land whether the plant only nibbles or takes a bite big enough to repay his expense.

By using radioactive phosphorous as a "tracer" in phosphate fertilizer, for instance, scientists can tell the amount each plant takes.

One of the facts revealed during tests in North Carolina was that corn liked the phosphate from fertilizer for a time, then would switch to the phosphate which had been present before fertilization. In Maine, the potatoes preferred the fertilizer phosphate all the time. In other cases, plants always preferred the phosphate already present in the ground.

'X' for Taft

Sen. Robert Taft's presidential star once again was in ascendancy following the important Ohio primary election of 53 Republican national convention delegates. He won 14 of the 23 contests in which Harold E. Stassen was a strong disputant.

UNCERTAINTY: Who Won?

Just about all that anyone was sure of when the smoke from the Ohio primary elections had cleared was that Sen. Robert Taft had won 44 delegates to the Republican national convention and that Harold Stassen, the wolf at Taft's door, had captured nine.

How those results should be interpreted promised to be a thoroughly argued question by the time the Republicans convened in Philadelphia to nominate a presidential candidate.

Many held the opinion that the Ohio primary resulted in, if not an outright defeat for Stassen, at least a brusque check on the Minnesotan's heretofore snowballing campaign.

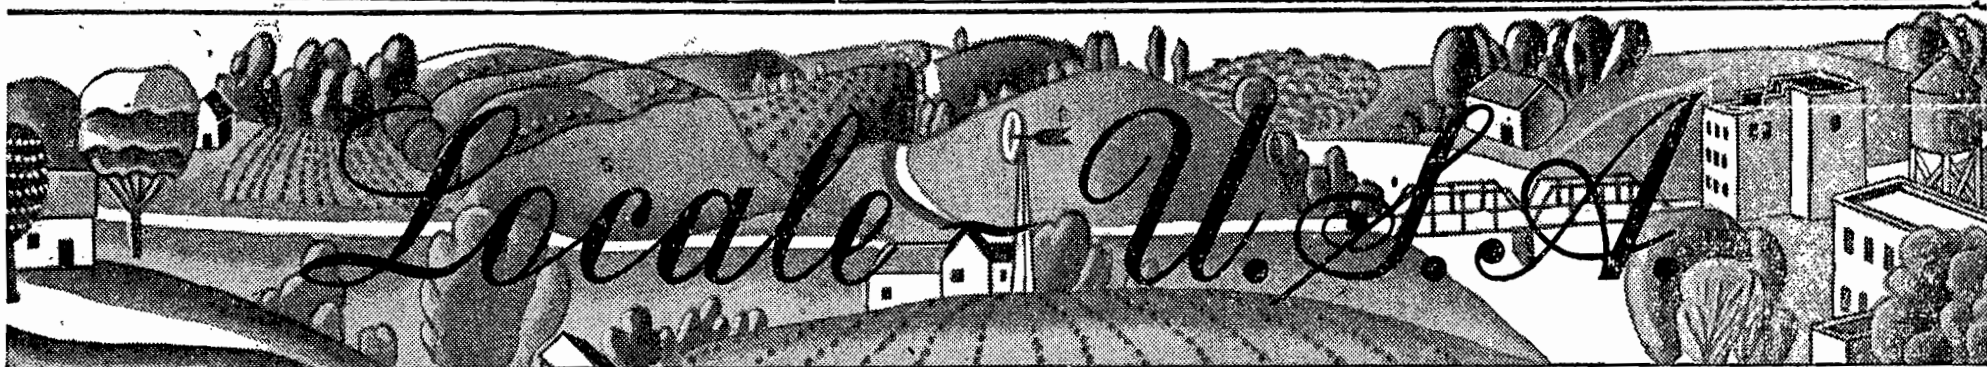

Stassen had competed with Taft for 23 of the state's 53 delegates. He won nine and Taft took 14 of those 23. In a pre-election statement, Stassen had said that the Ohio contest could be accounted a victory for him only if he won a majority of the 23 disputed delegates.

Thus, by his own estimate, Stassen lost in Ohio. He lost, however, to a "favorite son" candidate strongly supported in his own state by Ohio's powerful political organization.

It was hardly a victory for Taft to shout about. Even though he had won a decisive majority of the contested delegates, the very fact that Stassen had been able to command nine—one-sixth of the state's total number of delegates—would be bitter tea for him to swallow.

In the final analysis the G.O.P. election race had not changed much. It was Taft and Dewey teaming up to force Stassen into the rail, with Sen. Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan coming up fast on the outside.

THEN HEAVEN TRIES EARTH IF IT BE IN TUNE,
AND OVER IT SOFTLY HER WARM EAR LAYS.

The Phillips Exeter Academy

A Preparatory School for Boys

Incorporated April 3, 1781.

The Phillips Exeter Academy in Exeter, New Hampshire, is an institution devoted to the purpose of affording the young men of our nation a finer and more responsible education. They have an excellent attendance and it is an institution enabling our young men to acquire, under select guidance, an education which will fit them to enter college, further vocational studies or enter business as the case may be.

In giving the outside world an adequate idea of our social, artistic and educational progress, we deem it quite appropriate to call the attention of the public to the efficiency and great work that is being carried on in this section at the Phillips Exeter Academy.

This institution, which was originally founded one hundred sixty-seven years ago, is located close to Exeter center and yet far enough away so that the activity of the town will not interfere with the students.

The faculty of The Phillips Exeter Academy have a real interest in this community and are very appreciative of the fact that the Academy is located in Exeter. Mr. Saltonstall, the principal, and the other members of the faculty are always desirous of showing that appreciation in any way possible.

Several Exeter boys as well as boys from Newmarket and Durham are students at the Academy. The student body this year—as in years past—is made up of boys from several different states.

This is the day and age of efficiency. The man who is not prepared to keep pace with the demands of the present day activities is soon lost in the hurry and hustle of modern methods. It is not necessary that one become a machine, but it is absolutely essential that everyone who wishes to be successful in life have a practical education and such training can only be secured in an institution devoted to preparing its pupils for life.

The buildings at The Phillips Exeter Academy provide for almost every activity in life—library, physical education, athletics, music hall and religious activities.

The faculty headed by Mr. William G. Saltonstall, principal, has extended every effort to make the Academy an asset to Exeter and its growth has been the result of admirable policies followed in its direction.

The purpose of The Phillips Exeter Academy is not only to improve the factual knowledge of the students but to familiarize them with the rudimentary principles of the various phases of business which they intend to follow in the future.

These publications are proud to have such a prominent institution as The Phillips Exeter Academy represented in this issue and wish them an everlasting success.

NEWMARKET NEWS—5

—BUY U. S. SAVINGS BONDS—

Thursday, May 27, 1943.

MARSHALLING YARD PACKS 'EM IN... Here is an aerial view of the Sunnyside yards of the Pennsylvania railroad at New York, the biggest railroad yards in the world. Even its great capacity was being taxed severely 24 hours before the scheduled national strike of three rail brotherhoods which didn't come off. Idle trains were being parked there in expectation of a complete stoppage of rail transportation. The strike, however, was delayed for eight days when President Truman seized the railroads in the name of the federal government and ordered the army to operate them. Leaders of the three unions--engineers, firemen and switchmen--obeyed a restraining order to postpone the strike. They remembered what had happened to John L. Lewis for ignoring the same kind of court order.

ONE OF THE ROADS BACK... Alcoholism has become one of the most distressing problems of this generation. It has beaten many men and women, but one man it didn't lick was J. Robley Tucker of Camden, N.J. Tucker made 10 million dollars in real estate during the 1920s, then drank it all up. But he made a comeback. He bought an estate near Bridgeton, N.J., called it 'Ivy Manor' and turned it into a home for alcoholics where he now helps other victims shake off the disease. During the past two years he has dried out 150 of the 200 addicts who came there. Photo shows the rumpus room, where guests are encouraged to drink all they want--but the drink is coffee. Mural is by a former patient.

PONTIFF WELCOMES ROOKIES... To the average American who lived through the war years a 'rooky' is a blighted young man who cannot immediately distinguish his left from his right foot, stands for all sorts of incredible insults from sergeants and appears in public in olive drab pants that Gargantua might have slept in. Here, however, is another species of rooky. Dressed in vertical stripes, they are new members of the Swiss guard--the papal bodyguard. The group is being received by Pope Pius who gave them the apostolic benediction. They were inducted as part of the annual celebration on the anniversary of the sack of Rome in 1527.

HEADS WILL ROLL... This was one Wallace rally that got rained out. Members of the 'Youths for Wallace' and the 'Students for Wallace' organizations put up big reasonable facsimiles of the heads of their heroes, Wallace and Sen. Glen Taylor, on a backdrop at the Sylvan theater, near the base of the Washington monument in Washington. Heads of the two third party leaders were rolling all over the place, but to no avail. The weatherman failed to cooperate--he's probably a Democrat.

AFTER ELECTION VICTORY... Despite warfare and Communists, they still were able to hold an election in China. Chiang Kai-shek was elected the first president of the new Chinese republic under the new constitution, and Gen. Li Tsung-Jen was elected vice-president. In the photo, the 58-year-old Gen. Li Tsung-Jen and his wife are shown bowing to President and Mrs. Chiang Kai-shek after visiting at their home and receiving congratulations.

QUITS CABINET TO RUN FOR SENATE... Clinton P. Anderson, who has become almost a household word among U.S. farm families as the secretary of agriculture, has resigned that cabinet post to run for the U.S. senate in New Mexico. President Truman formally accepted his resignation and Anderson started to pack his things to leave the office for good. During his tenure as secretary of agriculture farmers of the nation experienced their greatest period of prosperity in history.

POLISH CLUB Notes

President Joseph Shina of the Polish American Citizens' club is asking all its members who wish to take part in the Memorial parade to meet at the club hall at 9.30.

We hear that Joe Shina went up the river Sunday and tried his luck for pickerels and we hear he caught a few of them. Let the boys know how many you caught Joe.

There were quite a few of the boys that went to see the PAA baseball team play South Berwick. It was a very good game and a tough game to lose. Frank and Steve did a good job of pitching.

John Homiak and his Polka Kings played at the St. George Dancers Sunday at a special occasion. All present enjoyed the music.

SEVEN GABLES

VACATION CABINS ON THE OCEAN.

MR. & MRS. J. W. HOLLIS, MANAGING OWNERS.

20 MODERN VACATION CABINS, SINGLE AND DOUBLE, HOT AND COLD SHOWERS, LAVATORY AND BATHS. CATERING TO JUNE VACATIONISTS,

Seven Gables and their Vacation Cabins On The Ocean at 399 Ocean Boulevard in Hampton Beach, because of their modern service, is growing in popularity all the time. This vacation camp is thoroughly equipped and up-to-date in every way and is operated at reasonable rates. There is no greater necessity today than the modern vacation cabins. The number of people visiting these summer resorts by the seashore, especially while on their vacations, is increasing with each season. For this reason, the modern vacation camp proprietor must keep his vacation cottages in a clean, comfortable condition, equipped with modern facilities. The old time way of "roughing it" while on vacation is almost a thing of the past. People who have worked hard all winter and spring want every modern convenience when they are finally permitted to leave the daily grind for a few weeks. At the Seven Gables Vacation Cabins on the Ocean in Hampton Beach, one will find that every comfort and convenience has been provided for vacationists and the prices are within the reach of everyone. Every community or resort that can boast of such a vacation camp as the Seven Gables is sure of much recognition and patronage.

We are certainly glad to be able to refer our readers to Seven Gables on the Ocean and point to its modern up-to-date facilities. It is becoming increasingly popular all the time. All of their vacation cabins are comfortably furnished, well ventilated and sanitary; have hot and cold showers, lavatories and baths. They are catering especially at this time, to June vacationists and are open for reservations.

The rates at Seven Gables are reasonable and the service is as near perfect as it is possible to make it. We are pleased to compliment Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hollis, the managing owners, and recommend their service. Phone Hampton 533.

HOWE MOTOR SALES

AUTHORIZED KAISER-FRAZER SALES AND SERVICE. GENERAL AUTO REPAIRING, AMOCO GAS, OIL & LUBRICATION SERVICE, UNITED MOTORS SERVICE, GENUINE DELCO-REMY & AUTO-LITE REPAIR PARTS.

Getting impatient waiting for your new Kaiser or Frazer? Don't give up for either one of these cars is worth waiting for. The Kaiser-Frazer Corporation of Willow Run, Mich., is "doing everything" possible to increase production of these fine cars, but the demands of dealers like Howe Motor Sales on Lafayette Road in Hampton are so great that even though more than one car every minute rolls over the assembly line, orders can't be filled on time. Even 12,000 Kaisers and Frazers a month are nowhere near enough to keep orders filled. And no wonder! The many thousands of owners of these fine cars are doing too good a selling job. They have discovered something totally new—in beauty, in performance, and in ride! They pass on their discovery to their friends who, in turn, become sold on either a new Frazer or Kaiser.

Howe Motor Sales requests you prospective Kaiser or Frazer owners extend your patience until production and demand can be more nearly neutralized.

In the meantime, Howe Motor Sales is very much interested in helping you keep your present car operating as efficiently as possible. Bring your car into Howe's for expert workmanship in all phases of general automotive repairing, Amoco gas, oil and lubrication.

They are also the authorized United Motors Service station in Hampton and they not only afford complete factory service covering all items grouped under United Motors Service, but also such service and information on the other outstanding products that they handle, which includes the genuine Delco-Remy and Auto-Lite repair parts.

Keep your present car rolling until you can roll out in a new Kaiser or Frazer. These postwar cars are really something to see, to drive and to ride in. If you haven't had a Kaiser-Frazer ride, try one today, and you won't want to ride in any other car. For a demonstration telephone Hampton 2215.

new in the line is added as soon as it is out and has been approved by the supervising authorities.

More Vegetables

Small gardens should be worked mostly by hand, so the rows can be closely spaced. Turnips, beets, carrots, radishes, onions, lettuce and mustard can be planted in 12-inch rows. Others should be spaced according to size and growth habit of the particular plant. Allow space for growth and for harvesting.

Termites and Pecans

Termites usually live in dead wood and most people associate them with wood destruction. However, pecan nursery stock and small trees sometimes are killed by the feeding of termites in the roots. The tree may have its taproot or its branches tunneled until only a shell or the bark remains.

Queen Bee Care

Before placing a new queen in a new home the old queen and all queen cells must be removed. The small cage containing the queen should be placed above the cluster of bees, or between two frames of comb so that worker bees have easy access to the candy-filled cage entrance. It is assumed that during liberation operation the queen takes on the regular colony odors and, therefore, will be accepted. After introduction, a week should elapse before the hive is reopened and the queen cage removed.

Olive Trees and Taxes

Many years ago, when the Balkan province of Macedonia was a center of contention among Turks, Bulgars and Greeks, the Turks, in possession at the time, set out to make the province unattractive to rival nationalities. They adopted the device of putting up taxes on olive orchards to the point that forced the unfortunate owners of olive orchards to cut them down. As olive growing was an important industry, the trick worked.

First Illinois Paper

Illinois' first newspaper, the Illinois Herald, was published at Kaskaskia in 1814. The second, the Illinois Immigrant, appeared at Shawneetown in 1818. Kaskaskia, once the state's leading city, was flooded over and now lies at the bottom of the Mississippi river. Shawneetown, with a population of less than 2,000, recently was moved away from the banks of the Ohio to escape periodic flooding.

Good Wool Producers

Wyoming sheep producers carrying on flock improvement work use rams which produce about 4.8 pounds more greasy wool than ewes in the same flock, according to University of Wyoming wool department. Rams in these flocks produced from 1½ to 7 pounds more greasy wool per fleece than the mature ewes, with an average difference of about 4.8 pounds.

Senator Taft Gets 'New Look'

SEN. ROBERT TAFT, worried about his poor showing in the presidential polls, has been consulting with professional opinion researchers. Their advice has been that he become known as a "liberal."

One of Taft's advisers is Dr. Claude E. Robinson of Princeton, N. J., president of Opinion Research corporation, who has collected opinions on Taft from all over the country.

"You are so busy with the practical side of government," he told the senator, "that you have lost sight of the fact that people think in terms of goals. You should start letting people know that you are on the side of the Lord."

He suggested that Taft reveal himself in his "true role" as a liberal and stress his stand for the public good; that he start by examining the question of what is a liberal and defining it as one who believes in liberty and higher living standards. The strategy then is to show that Taft possesses the practical sense to achieve these goals.

Dr. Robinson warned that the public still is fearful that the Republican party represents "reaction and the vested interests." He quoted a typical opinion from his surveys — that "no poor man should be a Republican." The best way to combat this, he recommended, is to set up goals and catch the eye of the common man. Taft could bid for leadership of the true "revolutionary" movement — the revolution which started July 4, 1776, advised Dr. Robinson.

It was shortly after consulting with Dr. Robinson that Taft came out with his political "new look," starting off with a speech, "What Is a Liberal?"

Smoking Habit Can Be Licked

SORRY, no got a match. I said ungöt match. No tengo matcho. I used to carry matches and I must have four or five lighters, kicking around the house, all out of gas. One of them is gold, I think, a birthday or Christmas present from back in those crazy days when everybody had to have an expensive lighter from the English spot on the avenue where the counter-hoppers wear those long white, doctor coats, like butchers in a packing plant, and you don't just ask for a pack of gaspers but act like you were in church and the guy goes into a vault, and comes out with something very tasty in tinfoil from the old world.

It certainly is funny about those English. In their own country they have no more class than Sam's swap shop, dumping everything in the show window, and even in good times they would rather pht in your eye than take the trouble to wait on you. But they come over to New York and dress up their blurry clarks in costumes and talk about nine-and-thruppence and a guinea-a-go and the Americans will pay anything for their woodbines and cigarette lighters.

Washington Has a Nightmare

Washington was frightened out of its dreams the other night when the most violent thunder-and-lightning storm I've ever witnessed atomic'd the capital. It broke about 2:18 a. m. and lasted several hours. . . . Next day wherever you went, from the White House to Harvey's restaurant, the people all said the same thing. "I thought Russia dropped an A-bomb on us" . . . The lightning just didn't stop and the boom-boom of a zillion rolling bass-drums — made me wonder if that isn't exactly what our men go through up front during war. . . . A devoutly religious woman said: "Nobody can make me believe God didn't arrange it just that way—right over Washington, D. C., so all the wicked men at the Pentagon 'would be reminded of what war sounds like when it gets close."

Manhattan Murals: The elevator operator at 139 E. 57th who still wears his battered air corps hat up-and-downing his "plane" . . . The Anyway, I certainly am glad I don't have to find the heel of my thumb raw like Jimmy Valentine's, every two or three weeks changing flints because, no, I didn't swear off, I just didn't smoke any more. After more than 30 years, probably more like 35, one morning I didn't smoke until noon and then I didn't smoke until evening and when it came bedtime and I hadn't smoked I WAS ALMOST AFRAID TO THINK ABOUT IT.

But I ignored it and the next day I kept putting it off, and many's the time I had two or three days and sometimes even a week, but this time it was different.

This time I was aloof. After the second day, anyway, I ignored it. Once in a while she would say she was real proud and nobody could realize what a comfort it was not to have that reek always around but I preferred not to discuss the matter at all. After a month I was pretty sure of myself, although, as I say, this time it was no struggle because I just relaxed and didn't make a struggle of it. I ignored it. Two months. I wasn't counting any more. I haven't counted in three months. I just don't smoke so I have no reason to carry matches.

HAMPTON METAL SHOP

EDGAR S. SMITH, PROP.

SHEET METAL AND FURNACE WORK, KITCHEN FANS AND HOODS, EXHAUST FANS. ALL DUCTS MADE TO FIT YOUR HOME IN THEIR OWN SHOP. SPECIALIZING IN AIR CONDITIONING, FEATURING LENOX AND THATCHER AIR CONDITIONING.

The Hampton Metal Shop, located at the Hampton Falls town line on Lafayette Road in Hampton, in addition to being sheet metal and furnace specialists, are outstanding in this section of the state in rendering a modern service in air conditioning for homes, business buildings, apartments, churches, schools and theatres. Air conditioning is rapidly becoming more widespread and desirable in homes because it causes a healthful even temperature and also corrects the disagreeableness of humidity in the summer weather by lessening it and in winter adds comfort by increasing it.

The Hampton Metal Shop features Lenox and Thatcher Air Conditioning Systems which will correctly maintain humidity, clean the air, eliminate stagnation, prevent uncomfortable drafts, and enable one to keep the home or building at the proper temperature.

In winter, because of ordinary heating, humidity must be added and Lenox or Thatcher Air Conditioning does this and also removes soot and dust from the air making it unnecessary to open windows to get "fresh air" and chilling the house at the same time. Lenox and Thatcher Air Conditioning brings sanitation and good health and, where it is installed, increases business in mercantile establishment and theatres and adds immeasurably to comfort in the home.

The Hampton Metal Shop does remarkable work in sheet metal and furnace work. All ducts used in your home are made right in their own shop which guarantees a perfect fit and eliminates the danger of marring the floors or walls in your home when a system is being installed.

Mr. Edgar S. Smith, will be glad to submit estimates to anyone interested with no obligation entailed. We wish to recommend the services of the Hampton Metal Shop to all our readers. Telephone Hampton 2098.

SEVENTEENTH CENTURY HOUSE

TALBOT SMITH & RICHARD GREENE, PROPS.

WHERE AUTHENTIC ANTIQUES ARE TO BE FOUND IN GREAT PROFUSION. BUYING AND SELLING 17TH AND 18TH CENTURY ANTIQUE FURNITURE.

The Seventeenth Century House, located at the Sanborn Corners on Exeter Road in Hampton Falls, is one place in New England where the antique lover can go and find really authentic antique furniture. Messrs. Smith and Greene, the proprietors, buy and sell only furniture of the seventeenth and eighteenth century periods—or older. They search throughout the country and buy only what they know to be real old furniture or other articles.

This seventeenth and eighteenth century furniture is all displayed in several rooms of a beautiful old seventeenth century house in Hampton Falls—hence the name, Seventeenth Century House.

In many families furniture is handed down from generation to generation. Really good furniture can survive years of hard wear. Some pieces a couple of centuries old is still very serviceable and will remain so for centuries more with the proper care. The service offered by the owners and managers of the Seventeenth Century House aids in the preservation of the home, as homes furnished with furniture that is attractive and has a history behind it reminds one of the deeds of the past and at the same time is very comfortable and makes the home a delight to behold.

We could write many columns regarding the colonial and earlier period furniture to be found at the Seventeenth Century House in Hampton Falls and then not cover the situation thoroughly. To list the antique items to be found there would be an almost endless task. Our suggestion to our readers is to visit the Seventeenth Century House and see for themselves the wonderful opportunities they provide for you to completely furnish your home with real authentic antique furniture that you will be proud to show your friends.

It is a pleasure for the writer and these publications to recommend the beautiful and durable furniture to be found at the Seventeenth Century House in Hampton Falls. Telephone Hampton 2046.

The first was the emblem a torch on a keystone; the second person lit a candle for knowledge; the third lit a candle signifying leadership; the fourth stood for service and the last candle meant character. Mr. Stillier then told of the National Honor society's colors which are blue and gold. The blue stands for truth; the gold for the light of the world. He stressed the fact that light is truth. ## WASHINGTON DIGEST

Presidential Campaign Is Crammed With Strange Political Paradoxes

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator

WASHINGTON—Political currents and cross currents are running high, wide and deep along the Potomac these days.

The wave of popularity stirred up by Stassen supporters is not pleasant for regular Republicans to contemplate. Some of the non-professionals, however, particularly those in the Taft corner, are very bitter about it, not because they think that Stassen will get in, but because of the way he has served to block the Taft efforts—despite the fact that those efforts have been labelled, rightly or wrongly, futile from the beginning. Deweyites don't admit they are worrying—but!

I talked to one of the Taft men recently. "What makes me sick," he said, "is the way the people who have done their best to break down Taft are full of praise for him now that they think he is beaten. They describe his efficiency, his knowledge, his frankness, his grasp of the subjects he discusses. And they talk about Stassen's vagueness and inability to answer Taft's charges." "And these," he wound up, "are the same people who have been shooting at Taft ever since he started his presidential campaign."

There is something in what this man says. You would be surprised how many liberals, how many Democrats even, praise Taft privately, would really like to see him elected, but either they can't quite come out openly in his favor, or they take for granted he can't win anyhow.

Then there is the great group of Republicans who are going to vote for Dewey, but act as if they were gritting their teeth in the process. "What have you got against Dewey?" I ask them. Some are vague, others say the New York governor is a "straddler... an opportunist... never comes out for an issue until he sees a Gallup poll on it... but I suppose he'll win!" Can he?

Since the Stassen hurricane, the oldtimers are talking a little differently about Dewey. Some of them who have predicted right along that Dewey would win now are saying that Stassen has undermined him, so thoroughly that now Dewey has no more chance than Taft.

And all the time the Vandenberg tide is rising. But here's an interesting thing. Way back in February some very canny observers were saying that Speaker Joe Martin of the house of representatives had the best chance of anyone for the Republican presidential nomination, in case of the expected Taft-Dewey deadlock.

At the time many people were surprised, at that opinion. But it wasn't long before we began to see mention of Martin here and there. Then, finally, insiders accepted him as probably the best bet of the several Republican dark horses. I know I could feel his popularity growing as I travelled around the country.

But then came the surprise move when Martin was credited with bringing about settlement of the coal miners' pension row—the appointment of Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire as neutral trustee on the pension board with John Lewis and Ezra Van Horn, and the agreement that was reached between Bridges and Lewis.

At first the settlement put Martin in a favorable light with the public. Then some of the conservative Republicans who hate Lewis expressed their disapproval. There were hints of a "deal" that had been reached between Bridges and Lewis before Bridges was appointed. Democrats charged that Martin was politicking. Horn, representing the operators, appealed to the courts to declare the pension agreement invalid.

Martin's stock dropped. And the oldtimers began to say his chances for the presidential nomination were slim. Not so much because of the pension deal itself, but paradoxically—and this is one of the accepted paradoxes of politics—because his intervention in the row was taken as a public avowal of his candidacy. Martin ceased to be a dark horse—and as a light horse, he wasn't considered nearly as much of a favorite.

The paradox applies to Senator Vandenberg. The Michigan senator constantly and consistently has disavowed any desire or intention of being a candidate for the Republican nomination. If, according to this paradoxical political rule, the oldtimers say, he were thrust into the limelight, his cause would suffer too. At this writing, Vandenberg seems to stand as the No. 1 bet.

Stassenites, however, claim that this paradox is all old hat; that times and political thinking have changed. One of the first black marks which the Republican "old guard" checked against Stassen was the fact that he came right out as a candidate way ahead of time. The traditional thing is to be oh, so coy about it.

But some observers feel as Newsweek magazine expressed it some time ago: "Stassen's forthright quest for votes may end much of the traditional coyness of aspirants. In the future, it's thought that more candidates will frankly announce their intentions well in advance of election." Well, maybe.

There is plenty of old-line resentment against Stassen, not only because he began an open campaign so early, but also because of the efficient, powerful, highly-organized and aggressive machine he has built up. A right-wing Republican I spoke to recently seemed especially resentful, grumbling about the "big money" backing Minnesota's ex-governor, and the New York banking interests "that wanted in."

Senator Taft was reported so furious over Stassen's invasion of Ohio that it was thought that he might forget his rivalry with Dewey and throw his support to the New Yorker earlier in the convention if the deadlock was certain.

All this talk AGAINST candidates is interesting psychologically.

You always hear far more reasons for voting AGAINST a candidate than you hear for voting FOR one. It's a very good thing that no candidate is ever quite so bad as his opponents claim he is. Otherwise the government would fall apart regularly every four years.

Monroe Doctrine Is Reactivated

On Charles street in the sleepy little town of Fredericksburg, Va., in the first floor office of a story-and-a-half brick house, you can see, if you obey the parking signs and stop there, a beautiful brass-bound mahogany desk, artistic handiwork of the French cabinet makers of the early 18th century.

It is an historic piece of furniture for on its surface 125 years ago, there was signed a document which, reactivated today, becomes at once the challenge and the hope of free men throughout the world.

That desk, carefully carried across the seas as a precious heirloom, found its way into the great, empty rooms of the White House, newly-rebuilt after the destructive fire set by an enemy torch in the War of 1812.

Turn back the pages to December of the year 1823. At this desk sits a man in a stiffly-starched stock. His broad forehead is wrinkled with thought. His wide eyes look down at the document he is about to sign. It is his message to the 18th congress of the United States, but it embodies the spirit and is couched in the phrases which his predecessors have used before him expressing the intent and the obligations of the young republic of which he, James Monroe, is the President.

Two years before, the Czar of all the Russians had uttered a ukase that no foreigner must approach within 100 miles of the American coastline north of the 51st parallel. Russia then had a firm foothold on the northwestern coastland of the western hemisphere. The iron curtain had descended.

Plus ça change, plus ça reste la même chose!

"We could not view any interpolation for the purpose of oppressing them (the free countries of the Americas) by any European power in any other light than as the manifestation of an unfriendly disposition toward the United States."

One hundred and twenty-five years pass.

Today, the United States, in a world that has shrunk until Moscow is nearer to Washington than Boston was in Monroe's time, redeclares its resources to "help free peoples to maintain their free institutions and their national integrity against aggressive movements that seek to impose upon them totalitarian regimes."

The words are President Truman's, but the spirit is the same as that breathed in the Monroe doctrine. America carries on.

BARBS . . . by Baukhage

In President Lincoln's time, most of the speeches were made in the open air without benefit of public address system or microphone. Now all you really need is a few friends who can make themselves heard in a smoke-filled room.

Abigail Adams used to complain about low temperatures in the White House. I doubt if the present administration would echo her complaint, considering the heat that has been put on the President by members of his own party.

At the 100-dollar-a-plate dinner Wallace's supporters gave him, the author of "Finian's Rainbow" will supply the entertainment. This does not necessarily assure Wallace of the leprechaun vote, however.

The Republicans' problem isn't to find a contender for the presidential nomination. It's trying to get rid of some they already have.

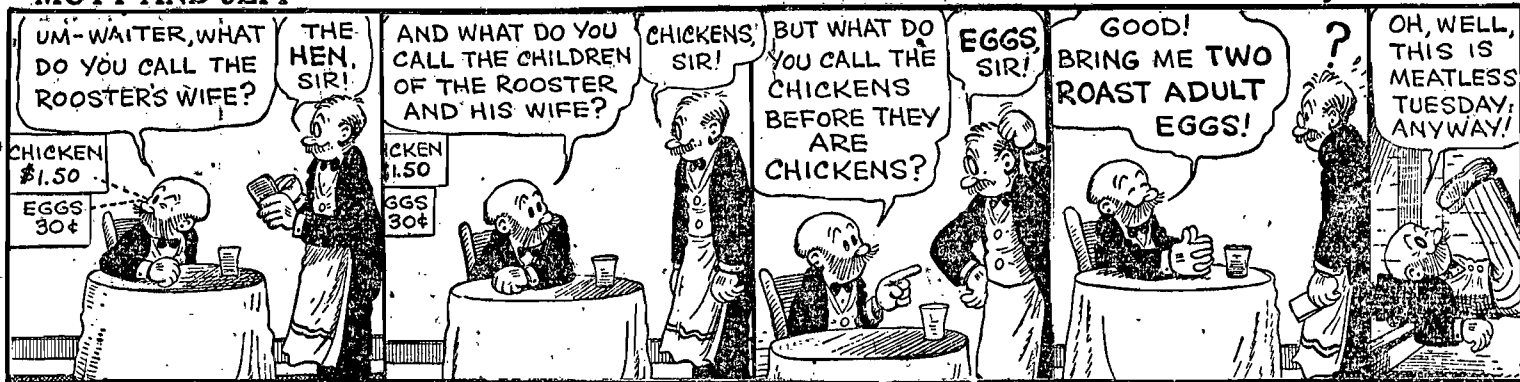

Will they televise the third party's political convention? I doubt it. Red usually doesn't photograph well.

ONCE UPON A TIME... Jonas Cernius was once the premier of Lithuania and chief of staff of the Lithuanian army. Today he is a factory hand in Newark, N.J., working for $30 a week. He plans to teach in a Midwestern college this fall, but high cost of living got to him in the meantime.

OFF TO CHINA... Roger D. Lapham, former mayor of San Francisco, has been named chief of the special mission to China for the economic co-operation administration, which is the agency set up to administer Marshall plan aid to distressed countries.

ACTIVE... One of America's busiest mothers is Mrs. Hazel Barr of Queens Village, N.Y., shown here with husband and daughter, Betty. She does housework for her family, holds a secretarial job and at the same time does so well in her aquatic pursuits that she is possibility for the U.S. Olympic swimming team.

MATRIMONY... Sooner or later everyone is bound to see a picture of the much-wedded Lana Turner and the much-wedded Henry J. Topping, now wedded to each other. This one was snapped as they left New York for an extended honeymoon in Europe.

The ballroom was gaily decorated in crepe paper and balloons of the pastel shades, yellow, blue, green and pink. Crepe paper was draped gaily from post to post and below the balloons gaily hung. The bandstand was a maze of beautiful colors as were the chaperone's box and the archways through which the juniors passed for the grand march.

The grand march was a scene of boys and girls who were enjoying the evening and the grandeur they were sharing with each other.

Lucille Hamel, class president, with her escort, Frank Brangil, led the march. Miss Hamel was dressed in a yellow marquisette gown with silver trimmings on the ruffles around the skirt and neck. Miss Hamel's corsage was of mixed sweet peas.

William Bouse, vice president and partner, Paula Longa, were next. Miss Longa's gown was blue taffeta, low round neck and a bustled back. Her flowers were red roses.

Agnes Blanchette, secretary, and escort Jick Record, were third in line. Miss Blanchette's gown was pink with white, velvet flowered print. The sleeves were short and scalloped and the back had a bustle. Miss Blanchette chose a corsage of sweet peas.

Carolyn Charest, treasurer, and escort, Forrest Kent, were next. Miss Charest wore a baby blue gown which was tight at bodice and at the waist folded into a full skirt. Miss Charest's corsage was of yellow roses.

Deborah Waugh, student council member, and escort James Shelton, were next in line. Miss Waugh chose a gold colored strapless gown with green trim. The skirt was tiered. Green orchids were her choice as flowers.

Albert Caswell's partner was Betty MacDougal of Exeter. Miss

MacDougal, wore a white gown trimmed with red. She chose red roses as her corsage.

Doris Bennett chose a baby blue taffeta gown. The neck was sweetheart, a tight bodice and the skirt flared into full folds. Miss Bennett's escort was Robert Stevens. Her corsage was made up of sweet peas.

Marguerite Stevens wore a light blue, high necked gown. The gown was beautifully trimmed with lace at the neck. She chose an orchid as her flower. Allen Mastin was her escort.

Anne Piccush wore a very plain light blue gown. A round neck and bustled back. Miss Piccush chose red roses as her flowers. Harold Hood was her escort.

Shirley Walker chose an orchid gown which had a bustled back and the neck line had a wide band as trim. Her flowers were white roses. Richard Cilley was her escort. Mr. Cilley also is a junior.

Jean Marshall's gown was pink with a square cut neck and tight bodice which flared at the waist. Miss Marshall was escorted by Stanley Shepard. She chose a corsage of mixed sweet peas.

Elaine LaBranche wore a gown made of blue nylon georgette material and trimmed with gold sequins. The neck was round. Miss LaBranche wore a corsage of red roses. Mr. Joseph LePage was her escort.

Loraine Marshall wore a pink marquisette with lace trim around the neck and sleeves. She chose gardenias for her corsage. Miss Marshall was escorted by Karl Schanda.

Marilyn Abbott was escorted by Richard Philbrick, also a junior. Miss Abbott wore an aqua moire gown. The gown had a V-neckline, cap sleeves and a bustled back. She chose white gardenias as her corsage.

Clifford Abbott and partner, Joan St. Laurent. Miss St. Laurent chose a cerise gown which had a high net neck and bustled back. She chose white roses as her corsage.

Patricia Shelton wore a blue gown which was tied in a bow over one shoulder and the other was bare. Miss Shelton chose yellow roses and was escorted by Weemys Scott.

The evening was very successful and many more would have attended if the weather had been more favorable.

Wouldn't it be nice to practice That fine way of thinking, too? You know something good about me!

POINT

always means: PURITY

The hunter watches the point... the butcher tests the point—and you, of course, get the point. Clearly, point's a word that fools you!

But not Ballantine! Ballantine never fooled anybody; it always means PURITY, BODY, FLAVOR... the qualities symbolized by Peter Ballantine's famous 3-ring trade mark. Always look for the 3 rings; always call for Ballantine.
